Happiest Journey Is One Long One

BERKELEY, Calif. AP-- Contrary to bleats from harnessed husbands, that trip down the aisle into wedlock is the happiest journey ever, a psychiatrist affirms.

And, Dr. Genevieve Knupfer added, despite the bachelor's gallant playboy image, chances are he's really a lonely, doubting, rejected wretch.

Old maids, Dr. Knupfer's survey indicates, seem to get along just fine.

Dr. Knupfer, who works at the Mental Research Institute here, conducted a survey among 765 adults of at least 23 years of age who are married or had never been married. Her findings:

Married men scored highest in happiness, job satisfaction and high spirits, scoring above married women, single men and single girls.

Married men worried less, were less likely to feel lonely and depressed.

Bachelors, in contrast, were more likely to be dissatisfied and out of step with the world. They were three times more likely to say they were unhappy, and four times more likely than single women to be dissatisfied with their jobs.

Dr. Knupfer said her studies also showed single men were more likely to have had childhood difficulties, were likely to have lived with only one parent, to be uncertain that their parents loved them and found parental authority irksome.

Single women, conversely, seem to have enjoyed the happiest childhood of all four categories, Dr. Knupfer said, adding that the old saying "happy marriages produce old-maid daughters" could be true.

As for maladjustment, she said, the single men lose out again to the old maids. The answer seems to be cultural factors she explained.

Dr. Knupfer said that since women are usually more anxious to get married, the fellows who escape the competitive race are more likely to be mere rejects.

"Because of the greater freedom of choice men have in the marriage market," she said, "it seems likely that those among them who are either unable or unwilling to get married are more psychologically impaired to begin with."

The gals most apt to be passed up by the marriageable men, she said, were the ones with the strongest personalities and other positive traits. Men, she said, prefer to feel superior to their wives.

The Okeechobee District Scout Exposition, held Saturday at the Armory building, drew 1,500 persons to view the displays of the 38 Scout units.

The top awards went to Cub Pack 140, on home games, sponsored by Matthews Elementary school; Boy Scout Troop 43, on photography, with Roy Nall as scoutmaster, and Post 41, with an Indian Lore theme, with Franklin Struwe as adviser.

The winners received the choice of an American flag or a unit flag.

In the Pinewood Derby, held by the Cub Scouts, (miniature car races), was won by Bobby Cooper, Pack 42, Bertrand; second place by Billy Boone, Pack 43, Sikeston; and third by Randy Hitchcock, Pack 40.

The second race at 8 p.m., was won by Phillip Stinson, Pack 43, Sikeston; second place by Clyde Wisdom, Pack 43, Sikeston, and third place by Billy Graham by Pack 41, Sikeston.

Debt Gets Man Shot

CHARLESTON -- A debt of three dollars, according to Mississippi County Sheriff W. R. "Pedro" Simmons, nearly cost Robert Smith, 45, his life early Sunday morning, 1:30 a.m., when he was shot in the left arm and shoulder by Sammie Lee Hopson, 45, with a pistol.

According to Simmons, Smith owed Hopson three dollars, the two argued, and Hopson shot him.

Hopson is presently being held in the county jail pending charges to be filed against him. Smith was taken to the Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston for treatment of the wounds. He was released yesterday.

The central highlands near the Cambodian border, U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division troops destroyed 15 huts with sleeping racks and 30 foxholes, found a tunnel complex and trail leading to the frontier and surprised a North Vietnamese soldier as he woke up this morning. He was shot as he tried to flee.

In a skirmish with an enemy patrol two miles from the border Sunday, the cavalrymen killed 10 Communists, including seven North Vietnamese regulars.

Political unrest took an increasingly anti-American tone with new demonstrations against Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's U.S.-backed military regime. Upwards of 20,000 persons joined a Buddhist-led march in the northern city of Hue demanding the junta's ouster and election of a civilian government.

Some of the marchers carried banners accusing the United States of obstructing a return to civilian rule.

A crowd of 500 Buddhist assembled in Saigon and heard speakers charge that Ky had sold out to the United States.

"Down with all governments that don't respect Viet Nam's sovereignty," some of the demonstrators shouted. "Yellow-skinned people in Viet Nam should not be oppressed by foreigners."

The Vietnamese chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Cao Van Vien, issued an order of the day to the armed forces warning them against becoming "victims of division schemes by the enemy."

"We must work hand in hand and steadily progress forward in defiance of any challenge and be determined to crush the in-among mangroves 40 feet high apparently had been obliterated.

He described the strike as "the most awesome and devastating thing I ever have seen."

While the blasts from the bombardment echoed across Saigon, two other waves of B52s from Guam unloaded their massive bomb loads on Tay Ninh Province, an old Viet Cong stronghold and reputed jungle headquarters of the National Liberation Front. The bombers attacked sections five miles apart near the Cambodian border about 70 miles northwest of Saigon.

The 1st Corps was hit by new Communist terrorism Sunday when a mine ripped apart a bus en route from Tam Ky to the village of Ly Tin, 350 miles northeast of Saigon. Seven civilians were killed. The coastal area is the center of widening U.S. Marine pacification efforts.

The Guam-based B52s dropped their 500- and 750-pound bombs to back up a U.S. Marine battalion--about 1,200 men--which landed Saturday on the Saigon River delta to clean out Viet Cong nests that have been harassing shipping to the capital.

The Leathernecks swept ashore from amphibious craft unopposed but ran into heavy small-arms fire at midnight. They returned the fire but the results were not determined.

The U. S. 1st Cavalry swooped in its helicopters across the central highlands toward the Cambodian border in an operation dubbed Lincoln. The skytroopers clashed with a Communist platoon about 32 miles southwest of Pleiku in the Ia Drang Valley, scene of their epic stand against North Vietnamese forces last November.

Artillery and air strikes joined the action.

Another campaign named after an American president--Operation Fillmore--took the U.S. 101st Airborne's 1st Brigade 13 miles south of Tuy Hoa, in the central coastal rice lands, where they killed 10 Reds and captured two.

An accident cost an American plane when it struck a tree near Xuan Loc, 30 miles east of Saigon Sunday. Two crewmen were injured. The other two walked away unhurt.

By THOMAS A. REEDY

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP -- U. S. Air Force B52s poured 100,000 pounds of explosives on thick mangrove swamps 18 miles southeast of Saigon today only a mile or so ahead of American Marines sweeping the river approaches to the capital.

The second race at 8 p.m., was won by Phillip Stinson, Pack 43, Sikeston; second place by Clyde Wisdom, Pack 43, Sikeston, and third place by Billy Graham by Pack 41, Sikeston.

Debt Gets Man Shot

CHARLESTON -- A debt of three dollars, according to Mississippi County Sheriff W. R. "Pedro" Simmons, nearly cost Robert Smith, 45, his life early Sunday morning, 1:30 a.m., when he was shot in the left arm and shoulder by Sammie Lee Hopson, 45, with a pistol.

According to Simmons, Smith owed Hopson three dollars, the two argued, and Hopson shot him.

Hopson is presently being held in the county jail pending charges to be filed against him. Smith was taken to the Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston for treatment of the wounds. He was released yesterday.

In the South, Air Force jets blew up 34 sampans and three large motorized junks in raids over the Mekong Delta south and west of Saigon Sunday, a spokesman said.

In the central highlands near the Cambodian border, U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division troops destroyed 15 huts with sleeping racks and 30 foxholes, found a tunnel complex and trail leading to the frontier and surprised a North Vietnamese soldier as he woke up this morning. He was shot as he tried to flee.

In a skirmish with an enemy patrol two miles from the border Sunday, the cavalrymen killed 10 Communists, including seven North Vietnamese regulars.

Political unrest took an increasingly anti-American tone with new demonstrations against Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's U.S.-backed military regime. Upwards of 20,000 persons joined a Buddhist-led march in the northern city of Hue demanding the junta's ouster and election of a civilian government.

Some of the marchers carried banners accusing the United States of obstructing a return to civilian rule.

A crowd of 500 Buddhist assembled in Saigon and heard speakers charge that Ky had sold out to the United States.

"Down with all governments that don't respect Viet Nam's sovereignty," some of the demonstrators shouted. "Yellow-skinned people in Viet Nam should not be oppressed by foreigners."

The Vietnamese chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Cao Van Vien, issued an order of the day to the armed forces warning them against becoming "victims of division schemes by the enemy."

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Monday, March 28, 1839, Salem, Massachusetts - "Crazy Alice" escapes on broom.

The Missouri House redistricting commission has made the best of a bad job.

No one in rural Missouri wants to give up the number of House seats required to conform to United States Supreme Court order requiring enforcement of a one-man, one-vote rule. But the Supreme Court decision is the law until Congress overturns it.

Speaker Thomas D. Graham, who has wound up with the comfortable Democratic constituency of Jefferson City, favors the Dirksen amendment in Congress to permit states to apportion one house of their legislatures on factors other than population. So do all rural Missouri residents but the prospect for enactment of the amendment grows dimmer with the passage of every day as the metropolitan forces gain a greater voice in state and national government. Once given more power the cities aren't going to surrender it.

Graham has maintained that the House should redistrict itself.

This is a popular position for the speaker of the House to take because it is exactly what its members want but that doesn't make it right.

In fact it is wrong because House members would never do a good job. They are too much interested in preserving their own legislative seats and maintaining the status quo.

Collectively that aspiration can't lead to any worthwhile redistricting. It can lead to nothing but the creation of a mess.

The bipartisan commission approach in which Gov. Warren E. Hearnes made the final selection of the commission is the proper one.

It was not possible to give each county a representative and it was necessary to split the representation in some counties, including Scott, but the commission took into account community and sectional interests and tried to avoid as much disruption as possible.

The commission has succeeded in preserving a harmonious balance although there was no way to avoid reducing the power of the rural areas in the legislature. Its proposal makes sense.

It should meet with approval of the federal courts as well as most Missourians, who understand that while many can't have what they want, the plan under the circumstances is about the last offensive that could be drawn. It is a plan with which Missourians can live.

THE WHYS AND RESULTS OF FOREIGN AID Statement to Indian officials in Calcutta by an American official shortly after the U.S. turned down a huge loan to build the Bokaro Steel mill:

"Though the foreign aid program has made it impossible for you to get the billion dollars, you will get it through other means."

Bureaucratic arrogance and the growing number of neutralist nations that fall into communist orbit have caused many U.S. leaders to wonder if massive foreign aid really works. The sometimes certain, oftentimes uncertain, AID program has not proved to be the free world answer to stopping communism. It has proved to be vastly expensive and only partially successful.

When did foreign aid begin? There is much disagreement, but perhaps Lend-Lease was a starter.

In 1938, Europe was threatened by the military might of Nazi Germany. Britain's Neville Chamberlain was convinced he could deal with Germany by employing concessions and compromises. When Chamberlain returned from Munich after his historic meeting with Hitler, he assured the people of England that through negotiations and necessary concessions the danger of a war in Europe had been averted.

The treaty signed at Munich was proved worthless in September, 1939 when the Germans marched into Poland. Piece by piece, Western Europe was crushed by the Nazis. With the fall of France, Hitler was ready to launch a major offensive against Britain. Winston Churchill asked the U.S. for support, and in March 1941, Congress authorized the President to spend $7 billion on Lend Lease. More than $42 billion was spent before Lend Lease closed its books. Of this amount about $11 billion went to Russia. Most of it became a "gift" rather than a loan. Very little of it has been repaid. In fact, the USSR never paid the U.S. the $621 million in World War I debts.

Lend Lease did prove itself. Without American supplies, it is doubtful the enemy would have been turned back. But, distributed by Presidential direction, it was not until after the war that the American taxpayer learned how much he had spent on foreign aid. In the postwar period, the U.S. government was in a giving mood--something had to be done for the millions of destitute living in war-torn areas. The United Nations Rehabilitation and Relief Administration was established to feed, clothe, and house these unfortunates. The tragedy of this program was that while it helped our allies, it strengthened communist control over 80 million people in Eastern Europe. The relief paid for by American dollars was allowed to be distributed throughout Eastern Europe by the Russian communists. This was a strategic victory for the Reds, who were thus able to appear to their countrymen as humanitarians.

With the rise of communist influence, some U.S. leaders felt that substantial aid to war-weakened nations would be the anticommunist tonic. Called the Marshall Plan, this aid cost the U.S. billions of dollars. It was successful in strengthening shaky economies, but failed to halt the tide of communism.

The European Recovery Act which brought the Marshall Plan into existence in 1948 was to have lasted only four years. Members of Congress were never more misguided. Foreign aid continued, lasted, and continues up to the present. During the past 20 years, communism has grown more than at any other period in its development. Our nation's program of foreign aid has done little to cause recipient countries to scorn communism. The "neutral" government of Cambodia is one example. Recently, this small but strategic nation in Southeast Asia said that all future U.S. military and economic aid would be rejected. In the same breath, French and American troops were ordered to leave the country. The U.S. government invested more than $365 million in Cambodia since Cambodian independence was declared in 1953. It was believed that foreign aid would win Cambodia over to the side of freedom, but shortly after the U.S. was told to get out of Cambodia the announcement came that communist Chinese experts were being brought in to help organize "state control."

Foreign aid also destroys the will to be self-reliant. As long as neutralist and procommunist nations can rely on the resources of the American taxpayer, why should these nations struggle for economic independence? The answer is obvious.

The situation that developed in India concerning the building of the Bokaro steel mill was an example of forced self-reliance.

Our legislators were told that this $1 billion mill could not be built without American aid. Since the mill would have eventually competed with private firms in the U.S., much resistance to the project developed in Congress. When India learned that many of our leaders were opposed to this aid the Indians decided they could finance and build the mill themselves.

To the staunch proponent of foreign aid, this show of belated self-reliance was a cruel blow. But bureaucrats heal remarkably fast, as noted by the statement made by the American official in Calcutta. The statement escaped notice until quoted January 20, 1964 in Senate debate on a measure to increase resources of the International Development Association.

Perhaps the AID balloon has not been burst; the arrogant confidence of the U.S. official seems to indicate that those who criticize foreign aid won't be picking on an admitted loser. Domestic resistance to foreign aid which had been building up over the years came to a head in the 1963 session of Congress. The economic and military assistance segment of the foreign aid bill provided $900 million less than the appropriation for the previous year.

By this action, Congress supported the widely-held opinion that if communism is to be stopped, means other than foreign aid should be considered.

We can start with a vigorous campaign to show the world that our personal enterprise system has proved to be the means toward economic recovery and national defense.

By BOB TUCKMAN
LONDON (AP) -- "It is sad to report," said the letter to the Times of London, "that yet another controversy is poisoning the atmosphere in which men of good will once believed they could live happily together."

The controversy? It's a fight about cheese -- Stilton cheese.

On one side are the Stilton cutters -- those who would use a knife to slice this strong-tasting cheese.

In the opposite corner are the Stilton scoopers -- those who would scoop out the cheese with a large spoon.

The controversy flares not only in the august pages of the Times. The British Broadcasting Co. also is interviewing experts on both sides of the cheese.

The cutters' argument is summed up in an article in the trade magazine, Caterer and Hotel Keeper. It advocates cutting Stilton to avoid waste.

The scoopers, on the other hand, contend that only by scooping can the flavor of Stilton be retained.

Roy MacGregor-Bastie of London, in a letter to the Times, advocated a bit of cutting but clearly favored scooping.

"Farmhouse Stilton, sir, should be cored at 18 months, moistened with port in the core, topped, and then scooped," he wrote the editor.

"Only in this way does the scent and flavor come through."

Philip Harben, a culinary expert who gives cooking lessons on British television, seemed to favor cutting Stilton. He objected violently to adding port wine.

He wrote the Times: "In those parts of Leicestershire and Derbyshire where most Stilton is made, the practice of scooping is abhorred, for it rapidly puts the fine cheese into bad condition. Whereas slicing ensures that it remains bland and creamy instead of rank and dry from over-exposure to the air."

John Easom, secretary of the Stilton Cheese Makers Association in Leicestershire, came out squarely behind the cutting method.

It is therefore about time to suggest that the most unblushing offender in misleading the general public is the Administration itself. The biggest "package" the Administration attempts to sell each year is the Federal budget. This consists of a mess of figures supposedly covering the anticipated cost of Government--and as everyone knows, "figures don't lie." But, in recent years, budget-makers have perfected a bookkeeping sleight-of-hand that gives the appearance of frugality while still promising everything to everybody.

The new budget, which the President presented to Congress in January is, we are told, a "bare bones" model. And since this has a slightly familiar ring, we can expect to find the "savings" in:

1. The shifting of spending from the new budget to the old budget where it will attract much less attention.
2. The predicted sale of huge amounts of government assets which, because of the way the government keeps its books, shows up in the budget as a decrease in spending rather than an increase in revenues.
3. Forgiveness of interest payments on Treasury loans to other Federal agencies.

4. Proposals to remove large spending programs from the budget by placing them in so-called revolving and trust funds, thus escaping full public and Congressional scrutiny.
5. Deliberately understating federal costs already incurred and underestimating costs that will occur.

6. Proposals to spend unused balances from previous years and thus avoid the embarrassment of asking for new money for programs.
7. Understating full costs of programs that are favored by Congress with the full recognition that Congress will increase the President's requests.

These, it appears, are but a few of the dubious tricks of the budget trade, which would make a book on "How to Cut the Budget Without Really Trying." But if the new Congress desires to protect the consumer it had better find the truth in the budget package before passing more costly, half-baked legislation.

The new "Cold War GI Bill" passed unanimously by both houses of Congress involves the outlay of a healthy chunk of money--some $2.8 billion over the next six years before it tapers off.

This is about twice as much as the administration asked for in its original request. But it is one of those things that cannot be categorized as inflationary or noninflationary, that eludes analysis in columns of profit and loss.

The fact is that a substantial share of the billions the program will cost will come from the incomes of citizens in the prime of their working lives who themselves received benefits--college educations, vocational training, home loans, etc.--under previous GI bills.

There were 8.4 million who participated in the first bill after World War II. Another 2.5 million were beneficiaries of the Korean GI Bill.

How much more they have earned, how much more they have contributed to the nation than they otherwise might have is impossible to say. The monetary returns on these investments might perhaps be estimated; in any other terms it is incalculable.

While the heavy hand the veterans' lobbies exercise over Congress is open to question in some matters, the new GI bill is one fruit of their labors everyone can applaud.

The riots did not continue, and Mrs. Gandhi's stock went up with the Indian people. They knew a Prime Minister had taken office who intended to be Prime Minister.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Coast-to-Coast Heavy Strike Storm Warnings Hoisted for Washington, D. C. -- All is not very quiet on this western front. On the land (and deep in it), on the sea and in the air there is deep agitation which presages an unseasonably hot spring in labor's ranks.

Money -- in cash not fringes -- is the root of all this upheaval.

There are threats of serious strikes, which may break just about vacation time, on five nationwide airlines, on some of 190 major railroads, on electric and electronic plants, in coal mines, in a couple of powerhouses, at a space base or two and on several billion dollars' worth of construction projects. From there on out it may be catching.

Already there is guerrilla warfare -- aimed as much against the White House and its Council of Economic Advisors as against the major corporations.

If red pins were stuck into an industrial map of the nation, it would appear that the land has scarlet fever.

The battle cry is: To hell with the national wage guidelines. Railroad unions want a 25 per cent increase. Electrical workers want at least a 13 per cent increase. Commercial airline employees want a 15 per cent increase.

The coal diggers -- or what's left of the once mighty force of pit men -- say not what they really want -- because the White House has been pressuring their comparatively unknown leader William Anthony (Tony) Boyle to go easy on cash demands.

The White House people tried such persuasion on the building and construction union chiefs, but were simply told to go to hell by one of their leaders and were charged by another with having their public relations men "throw rocks" at the unions.

No great cultural semantics is growing out of all this. But the entire conflict can be summed up with the laconic words of one Boston picket:

"I don't want no fringes. I want my lousy money now. I'm 25 years old and pensions just don't worry me yet," said this militant.

In another corner contribution to modern culture "Doc" James E. Wolfe, spokesman for the nation's railroads, retorted to demands of railway clerks, locomotive firemen and engineers for raises of 18 to 25 per cent: "They're absolutely nuts. They're not going to get it or anything like it."

They know an outbreak of peace will leave them with a bottom-breaking market and a top-side wage pattern.

Typical are the coal diggers. Their industry now is booming. So they pressure their new leader, Tony Boyle, to get them more cash as well as new "fringes."

The White House pressures Boyle not to ask for too much cash. And Boyle knows that if he doesn't deliver, he'll face new rank-and-file revolts, such as those which have been flaring through the coal fields.

It's the way of today's rank-and-file to talk back. Typical, indeed, are the words of the New York Kennedy Airport Machinists' lodge, which flashed the following notice to their international offices now crisis-bargaining with five major airlines:

"This lodge has no intention of conforming with the guideline concept of 3.2 per cent. It rejects in total the concept. . . . It further demands that its International exceed 3.2 per cent in current negotiations. . . . They mean it. They'll strike to prove they mean it. So will the others."

PROTECT YOUR LAVATORY

Don't store heavy cosmetic jars, cologne bottles and similar objects in the medicine cabinet. If you do, you're inviting trouble. The Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau points out.

It's easy for such objects to topple onto the lavatory or bowl or countertop. Although modern manufacturing methods make it less easy to mar fixtures, there's a limit to the "abuse" they can take. To make your bathroom fixtures retain their original beauty, it's simply good foresight to protect them from accidents of this sort.

FHA Week Being Marked

BENTON -- The Kelly Future Homemakers of America will be even busier than usual this week. It is the week 600,000 teenage members of this organization hold National FHA Week.

The chapter at Kelly has scheduled a number of activities for the week, according to Mrs. Frances Harris, adviser.

Future Homemakers are home economics students in junior and senior high schools. The organization, founded nearly 21 years ago, has for its motto, "Toward New Horizons." The motto refers to the extensive program of work F.H.A. members and chapters undertake to further their goal of helping individuals improve personal, family, and community living.

The nine projects of the current program of work are titled: Individuality Counts; Good Health; A Valuable Asset; Jobs, Careers, and You; Morals and Manners; Matter; Good Family Relations Through Communications; Citizenship Challenges You; Your Neighbors Near and Far; Make Your Money Behave; and Leisure Time -- Constructive Time.

Next on the schedule after FHA week, Mrs. Harris explained, comes planning for celebration of F.H.A.'s 21st coming-of-age birthday. Marking this important milestone will be a year-long campaign to be launched at the F.H.A. national meeting in St. Louis in July.

Future Homemakers of America is officially sponsored by the U. S. Office of Education and the American Home Economics Association. Financial support comes from dues of members. High school home economics teachers serve as advisers to F.H.A.'s 11,000 local chapters throughout the United States.

A missionary friend told me of a time of crisis in her life. They were stationed in a primitive area, and her husband had to go on an extended journey into "the bush." He had scarcely left when one of the children contracted polio; the others developed some minor malady with alarmingly similar symptoms.

My friend felt desperate. How could she bear the responsibilities -- day and night nursing -- the anxiety at home as well as concern for her husband who was venturing into untried territory? The episode had a happy ending. The children recovered; the mother lived through the unbelievably difficult time; the father returned safely with some new "souls for his hire."

Our conversation had started because she was comforting me during a period in which my tribulations grew quite minute compared with some of her experiences.

"How did you survive?" I asked her. "Of course I know you must have prayed and prayed and prayed."

"Actually, you know, I didn't," she confessed. "I was too exhausted to formulate the words. I moved like an automaton from one task to the next. God understood and I felt his presence. He gave me a simple sentence that kept me going day and night. I want to share it with you. I just affirmed: 'For this, I have Jesus!'"

Goulet Sings And Becomes A Father

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS HOLLYWOOD AP -- The stork delayed a celebrity wedding Sunday, but not for long.

Two hours before Robert Goulet was due at the wedding of Glenn Ford, 49, and Kathryn Hays, 31, his wife, Carol Lawrence, gave birth to an 8-pound, 5-ounce boy.

Goulet stayed at St. Vincent's Hospital long enough to make sure all was well, then dashed off to Westwood Community Methodist Church.

He sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "How Do I Love Thee," then returned to the hospital. Ford's best man was his son, Peter, 21. Peter's mother is dancer Eleanor Powell, whom Ford married in 1943. They were divorced in 1959.

Miss Hays, a television actress, is the daughter of Arnold R. Gottlieb of Joliet, Ill.

MERIDIAN, Miss. AP -- Joe Buntyn, a 12-year-old Boy Scout, says that dog is man's best guide.

Joe, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Buntyn of Meridian, became separated from his troop Sunday in deep woods, 18 miles from Meridian.

The youngster said he kind of got his bearings and started in the general direction of home. After walking a short distance he came across a stray dog.

According to Joe, the dog led him all the way back to police headquarters in Meridian.

WASHINGTON AP -- A little girl, wearing a bright red coat and with her hair in braids, caught President Johnson's eye Sunday as he arrived for 11 o'clock services at the National City Christian Church.

Patricia Kelley, 6, of nearby Arlington, Va., waved and beamed at Johnson when he got out of his limousine and started up the church steps. She obviously wanted to shake hands but police were keeping spectators at some distance.

Johnson solved her problem by motioning to the girl. He bent down to talk to her and she gave him a kiss on the cheek.

Mrs. Johnson accompanied the President to the services.

NEW YORK AP -- Mrs. Robert F. Wagner, wife of the former mayor, was discharged Sunday from Lenox Hill Hospital, ending a two-week stay for removal of a benign tumor.

"I feel wonderful," Mrs. Wagner said.

matter of fact

The hoatzin bird, which still survives extinction, can climb trees and swim in water, but is weak in flight. It is about the size of a small pheasant and inhabits the wooded river banks of the Atlantic drainage area in northern South America. For its voice, it emits only a few monotonous notes and harsh, hissing sounds.

FHA Week Being Marked

BENTON -- The Kelly Future Homemakers of America will be even busier than usual this week. It is the week 600,000 teenage members of this organization hold National FHA Week.

The chapter at Kelly has scheduled a number of activities for the week, according to Mrs. Frances Harris, adviser.

Future Homemakers are home economics students in junior and senior high schools. The organization, founded nearly 21 years ago, has for its motto, "Toward New Horizons." The motto refers to the extensive program of work F.H.A. members and chapters undertake to further their goal of helping individuals improve personal, family, and community living.

The nine projects of the current program of work are titled: Individuality Counts; Good Health -- A Valuable Asset; Jobs, Careers, and You; Morals and Manners Matter; Good Family Relations Through Communications; Citizenship Challenges You; Your Neighbors Near and Far; Make Your Money Behave; and Leisure Time -- Constructive Time.

Next on the schedule after FHA week, Mrs. Harris explained, comes planning for celebration of F.H.A.'s 21st coming-of-age birthday. Marking this important milestone will be a year-long campaign to be launched at the F.H.A. national meeting in St. Louis in July.

Future Homemakers of America is officially sponsored by the U. S. Office of Education and the American Home Economics Association. Financial support comes from dues of members. High school home economics teachers serve as advisers to F.H.A.'s 11,000 local chapters throughout the United States.

The program was given by Superintendent of Schools Lynn Twitty. He said that there were future plans to build a new school to replace the Airport school and also that there was a possibility of a junior college in this area.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

Refreshments were served by the third grade mothers.

Hostesses for the April meeting will be the teachers.

The Father ... doeth his works—(John 14:10)

We often work too hard at bringing this to pass because we believe it is up to us, that the outcome is entirely dependent on our personal efforts. But Jesus said, "The Father abiding in me doeth his works." We need to work from a spiritual level, to work in the faith that God is with us. His power in us is mighty to do all things.

Goulet Sings And Becomes A Father

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS HOLLYWOOD AP -- The stork delayed a celebrity wedding Sunday, but not for long.

Two hours before Robert Goulet was due at the wedding of Glenn Ford, 49, and Kathryn Hays, 31, his wife, Carol Lawrence, gave birth to an 8-pound, 5-ounce boy.

Goulet stayed at St. Vincent's Hospital long enough to make sure all was well, then dashed off to Westwood Community Methodist Church.

He sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "How Do I Love Thee," then returned to the hospital. Ford's best man was his son, Peter, 21. Peter's mother is dancer Eleanor Powell, whom Ford married in 1943. They were divorced in 1959.

Miss Hays, a television actress, is the daughter of Arnold R. Gottlieb of Joliet, Ill.

MERIDIAN, Miss. AP -- Joe Buntyn, a 12-year-old Boy Scout, says that dog is man's best guide.

Joe, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Buntyn of Meridian, became separated from his troop Sunday in deep woods, 18 miles from Meridian.

The youngster said he kind of got his bearings and started in the general direction of home. After walking a short distance he came across a stray dog.

According to Joe, the dog led him all the way back to police headquarters in Meridian.

WASHINGTON AP -- A little girl, wearing a bright red coat and with her hair in braids, caught President Johnson's eye Sunday as he arrived for 11 o'clock services at the National City Christian Church.

Patricia Kelley, 6, of nearby Arlington, Va., waved and beamed at Johnson when he got out of his limousine and started up the church steps. She obviously wanted to shake hands but police were keeping spectators at some distance.

Johnson solved her problem by motioning to the girl. He bent down to talk to her and she gave him a kiss on the cheek.

Mrs. Johnson accompanied the President to the services.

NEW YORK AP -- Mrs. Robert F. Wagner, wife of the former mayor, was discharged Sunday from Lenox Hill Hospital, ending a two-week stay for removal of a benign tumor.

High School Sports Has Good Outlook

Sikeston's baseball, golf, and tennis teams are looking forward to a good season this year. All three have experienced players and are in good shape. Baseball Coach Hal Lane says the Bulldogs should do well this year due to experience and good organization. The probable infield will be Jim Ramsey as catcher, Mike Couch at first, Richard Montgomery at second, Wayne Limbaugh at short, Mike Garner at third, and Gary Stallings on the pitcher's mound. It is early in the season and hard to tell how the other teams shape up, but Coach Lane feels the Dogs' big competitors may be Cape Central, Oran, and possibly Bloomfield.

The golf team is composed almost entirely of juniors, with no seniors and some sophomores. Charles Stamp, Matthews, and Jim Hux are returning this year and can look forward to a good season. Some juniors starting this year who look good are Rick Fakes and Barry Greer. Though the team is composed mostly of juniors, they are good experienced golfers. Coach Gene Dawson feels that competition should be close this year as all the teams in the conference are fairly even in ability and experience.

Tennis Coach Carl Richmond says he thinks that if the Bulldogs Tennis Team keeps working like they have been, they too should do well in area competition. Terry Burke and Dean Childers are returning seniors. William Dickerson and Jerry Humes are juniors and also look in good shape for the season. The first tennis meet is April 6, at Sikeston with Caruthersville. The big competition in tennis should be Kennett and Cape Central.

Cardinals Eke Past Astros

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA. -- Charley Smith, following his own time table to the letter, has provided an offensive pick-up for the Cardinals. He's never earned many spring raves while with the Mets or other major league clubs.

But when he slugged a decisive two-run homer in a 4-3 exhibition victory over Houston Sunday, the well-traveled third baseman stood out as the Red Birds' leading batter in the land of sunshine.

With the Mets the past two seasons, Smith powered 36 homers and drove in 120 runs. However, he's never hit much for average, and usually has been a strike-out patsy. The man named Smith is trying to change all that.

In the fourth inning, with the Astros holding a 2-1 lead over Art Mahaffey, Tim McCarver singled to right and Smith came to bat. He connected against Houston's hard-throwing lefty, Danny Coombs, and sent a drive over the left-center fence.

Now ahead by 3-2, the Cardinals pushed over the clincher in the seventh with the aid of a Houston error. Tito Francona followed a walk to Curt Flood with his second single, and when right fielder Norm Miller threw wildly toward third base, Flood scored the run that improved St. Louis' citrus record to 2-7.

Jim Hurtubise Wins Atlanta 500

ATLANTA, Ga. AP -- "I've never given any thought to quitting," said 33-year-old Jim Hurtubise, his fire - scarred face wreathed in a smile, as he described his victory in the seventh annual Atlanta 500 stock car race.

"This is the biggest race I've ever won," he said Sunday, admitting he is already looking forward to the Indianapolis 500 on Memorial Day.

The North Tonawanda, N.Y., driver, whose life almost ended in a fiery raceway collision two years ago in Milwaukee, gunned his 1966 gray and red Plymouth into the lead at the 158th lap and then outdistanced Fred Lorenzen of Elmhurst, Ill., to the finish.

Hurtubise was clocked to 131,247 miles an hour for the 500-mile victory, his first, and pocketed $17,920.

Lorenzen, driving a 1966 Ford, was trying for his fourth Atlanta 500 victory but did not seriously challenge the stock car driver until the last 58 laps as a Chrysler Corp. product broke a four-year domination by Ford cars at the NASCAR classic. Lorenzen won $8,290 for second place.

Dick Hutcherson of Charlotte, N.C., in a 1966 Ford, and Paul Goldsmith of Munster, Ind., in a 1965 Plymouth, finished third and fourth. Another 1966 Plymouth, driven by Jim Paschal of High Point, N.C., claimed the fifth spot.

Yankees, Mets And California Win In Extra Innings

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

With all his other anticipated troubles, New York Yankee Manager Johnny Keane wasn't exactly in the market for one more. So Tommy Tresh set his mind at ease.

Tresh was one of the few Yankees who got through 1965 intact -- both physically and artistically. In the year the Yankees finished sixth, Tresh led the club in almost every offensive department from batting .276 to home runs 26.

So, in what must be considered a rebuilding year, Tresh figured to be one of the few players about whom Keane wouldn't have to worry. Until Sunday though, the young outfielder had been causing some furrowed brows around the Yankees' Fort Lauderdale, Fla., training camp.

Tresh had been struggling along at a .182 pace with just three runs batted in 12 games. He was retired in his first three swings against Cincinnati Sunday.

Then in the eighth inning, with New York trailing 2-1, Tresh whacked his first home run. That one came from the right side against lefty Bill Henry. An inning later, right-handed Don Zanni was serving when Tresh, batting lefty, walloped his second homer, a grand slammer, giving New York a 6-2 lead. The Yankees went on to win 7-6 in 15 innings.

Hawks Ahead By Two Games

BALTIMORE, MD. -- St. Louis made it two straight pressure victories over the Bullets here Sunday before a spare turnout of 3106 fans, winning 105-100, to take what looks like an unbeatable 2-0 advantage in their best-of-five National Basketball Association Western Division playoff series with Baltimore.

Thursday, Richie Guerin's hustling Hawks, nipped the Bullets, 113-111, in the opener of the series, which continues Wednesday in St. Louis.

Guerin led the Hawks with 25 points, while Bill Bridges had 24. Zelmo Beaty 17, Joe Caldwell 13 and Rod Thorn and Len Wilkens 11 each. Bridges topped the rebounders for the game with 19 grabs, while Guerin and Beaty each had 11. For the Bullets, Jim Barnes was tops for the game with 27 points, while Bob Ferry chipped in 18, Ray Egan 15 and Bailey Howell 13.

The Bullets trailed by a couple of points, 24-26, after the first quarter, then with rookie Jerry Sloan sparking them, outscored the Hawks, 32-19, to lead at halftime by 56-45.

Sebring Speed Record's Smashed

By BEN FUNK

SEBRING, Fla. AP -- America's top sports car drivers, facing a wide-open road to glory, left Sebring's bloodied course behind today and looked ahead to Le Mans, France, and "the track of truth."

This is what the Italian automotive genius, Enzo Ferrari, calls the French circuit where the annual 24-hour speed flight proves for sure who makes the fastest and guttiest machines in the brutal arena of road racing.

Here, the American Fords must demonstrate in the hardest possible way that their smashing victories in the first two 1966 races for the World Sports Car Manufacturing Championship were no flukes.

After the fastest 12-hour race ever run at Sebring -- a thundering speed duel that left five persons dead -- Fords flashed across the finish line in 2-3 order, just as they did last month in the 24-hour Continental at Daytona.

A last-minute stroke of luck enabled Ken Miles, a thin, British-born automotive engineer, and Lloyd Ruby, a pudgy Texan from Wichita Falls, to take the checkered flag of victory.

Miles and Ruby smashed the Sebring speed record by averaging 98.631 miles an hour around the tortuous twists and turns of the hazardous courses in the Ford IX roadster.

But Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., and Jerry Grant of Kent, Wash., drove even faster until the engine of their Ford Mark II went dead 100 agonizing yards from the finish with Gurney at the wheel.

If Gurney had just sat there, his car would have taken second place because it had covered more miles than any other except the winning machine. But the determined young driver pushed it to the line and under the race rules disqualified himself.

Ferrari's big hope, a sleek red prototype driven by Mike Parkes of England and Bob Bondurant of California, limped off the course late in the race after giving the bigger Fords a fierce fight.

As the dangerous race neared its end, a German Porsche racer collided with a Ferrari, hurtled through a fence and slashed into a group of spectators, leaving four dead and four others injured.

Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., at the wheel of the Ferrari, escaped injury. So did Don West of Monterey, Calif., the driver of the ill-fated Porsche, but the mental shock of the experience put West in a hospital.

Earlier, a fiery crash off a hairpin turn brought instant death to the Canadian driving champion, Bob McLean.

Elsewhere, the Chicago White Sox won their ninth straight, trimming Detroit 7-1, Pittsburgh edged Baltimore 4-3, Washington defeated Kansas City 5-1, St. Louis downed Houston 5-3, Boston whipped Minnesota 5-1, the Chicago Cubs dropped San Francisco 4-3 and Atlanta defeated Los Angeles 4-2.

Tresh was the hero until the Reds jarred Bill Stafford for four runs in the bottom of the ninth to tie the Yankees. The two clubs then battled into the 15th when singles by Elston Howard, Horace Clarke and Cleto Boyer produced the winning run.

Choo Choo Coleman drove in the Mets' winning run with a single after Cleon Jones had walked and Ron Swoboda had singled. John Herrstein sent the game into extra innings with a two-out homer in the ninth. Al Luplow homered for New York.

Cleveland and California committed a total of nine errors between them with the Angels making six. Jose Cardenal delivered a pinch triple in California's four-run 11th that broke a 7-7 tie.

Clay-Chuvalo Southern Cal Fight Tuesday

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

TORONTO AP -- The promoters are billing Tuesday's Cassius Clay-George Chuvalo bout as the "Flight of the Century", but to many it will be known as the "Flight of the Century."

A proposed Clay-Ernie Terrell match was run out of New York and Chicago and fluttered between Maine and the Dakotas before it finally found a home in Maple Leaf Gardens.

When Terrell pulled out because of changes in the contract and other complications, Chuvalo hastily was substituted.

The Ontario Boxing Commission, as a member of the World Boxing Association, refuses to recognize this 15-round match as a title fight. Terrell is the WBA champion, although Clay generally is recognized. Chuvalo ranks No. 10 with the WBA and No. 9 with Ring Magazine.

Chuvalo, a 28-year-old Toronto strongboy, has lost two of his last three bouts. Although he has never been knocked out in 47 fights, he dropped his last start Jan. 25 in London to Eduardo Corelletti and was beaten by Terrell here in 15 rounds last Nov. 1. Corelletti, incidentally, was stopped in five rounds by Ray Patterson, Floyd's kid brother.

"I'm going to try to be the first to knock him out," Clay said Sunday. "I would feel I had accomplished something."

Nobody is giving Chuvalo a chance. They say he is a 7-1 underdog, but it could be 8 or 9 or even 10. Nobody seems to care.

Clay, recently was reclassified 1-A by his Louisville, Ky., draft board after standards for mental aptitude were lowered. The champion outraged many people by his quoted remarks:

"I am a member of the Muslims, and we don't go to wars unless they are declared by Allah himself. I don't have no personal quarrel with those Viet Congs."

Cassius, who prefers to be called by his Black Muslim name, Muhammad Ali, was given special permission to leave the country for this fight. Presumably he will hurry back after the bout to face his draft board again. Spokesmen for the champion have said he will appeal A request for reclassification on the basis of his religion already has been denied.

Clay-Terrell Fight Goes Before Federal Grand Jury

CHICAGO AP -- Government investigations of reports that gangsters tried to muscle in on the proposed Cassius Clay-Ernie Terrell heavyweight fight will be thrashed out before a federal grand jury.

Eight persons, including a pair of reputed Chicago mobsters, have been subpoenaed for the grand jury probe which begins Wednesday.

The action was triggered by Bernie Glickman, a former Terrell associate, who has been in protective custody since informing the FBI that he had been beaten in his apartment last February by mobster Felix Milwaukee Phil Alderisio.

The inquiry will be handled by Edward V. Hanrahan, U.S. attorney; David Schippers, head of the Justice Department's organized crime unit; and Sam Betar, an assistant U.S. attorney.

Government attorneys last Saturday revealed the attack against Glickman and a purported death threat against Terrell if Terrell failed to fight Clay in New York City. A government attorney said the death threat was made indirectly, through associates.

The reported reprisal against Glickman stemmed from gangster insistence that the bout be held in New York. New York, however, refused Terrell a license because of his associations with Glickman.

At the time, Terrell testified before the New York Athletic Commission that he no longer was associated with Glickman. But when the fighter went to New York to apply for his license, Glickman was aboard the same plane, an incident noted by the New York Commission.

Glickman's being seen with Terrell reportedly infuriated Alderisio who blamed Glickman for causing cancellation of the bout in New York.

The bout then was thrown out of Chicago and Montreal, before Terrell pulled out and George Chuvalo was then named Clay's opponent for the Fight Tuesday night in Toronto.

Among those who have been summoned by the grand jury are Gus Slim Alex, alleged gambling boss in downtown Chicago, and Gus Zapas, an ex-convict and an aide to James R. Hoffa, Teamster Union president.

Sports Round-Up

BASKETBALL
CINCINNATI, OHIO -- The Boston Celtics staged a strong finish to defeat the Cincinnati Royals, 132-125, and even their National Basketball Association semi-final playoff at one game apiece.

The Royals rolled to a 13-point lead in the second quarter as they ran the score to 50-37, but Boston fought back and only trailed 71-68 at the half. The Royals led by six points at the third period, but Sam Jones and Bill Russell started to click for the Celtics in the final session. Jones led all the scorers with 42 points, and Russell caged 25 and picked off 16 rebounds. Oscar Robertson, who had 35 points, fouled out near the end of the game. The Royals also lost Happy Hairstone and Wayne Embry on fouls.

LEXINGTON, KY. -- All-American Cassie Russell of Michigan set the pace as the East exploded in the second half and trounced the West, 126-99, in the College All-Star game. Russell collected 24 points, 17 in the second half. Dave Schellhase of Purdue came up with 17 points. Oregon's Jim Barrett and Jerry Chambers of Utah shared the scoring honors for the West with 19 points apiece.

HORSE RACING
AIN'TREE, ENGLAND -- The bookies had a reason to smile as Angelo a 50-1 shot won the gruelling Grand National steeplechase by 20-lengths. Angelo's victory saved the bookies from paying out an estimated 2.8 million.

Freddie, the 11-4 favorite who finished second, and third-place Forest Prince were two of the six horses that were linked with Riot Act, winner of Wednesday's Lincolnshire flat race, in what is known in Britain as the spring double. A victory for any one of the six would have meant winnings up to 2.8 million for the bettors.

Angelo jumped the last fence about a length in the lead, then romped off with the race.

MIAMI, FLA. -- First Family, ridden by apprentice jockey Earle Fires, scored a stunning upset in the $114,200 Gulfstream Park Handicap in a blinding rain storm. First Family, breezing home by a length and half, paid $26.80, $9.20 and $4.40. Selari returned $3.80 and $2.80, while Trio Viejo, an entry with Tronardo, paid $3 to show.

NEW YORK -- Quint, surviving a claim of foul, romped to a three-length victory in the $28,900 Bay Shore at Aqueduct. Kenny Knapp, astride Impressive, claimed he was fouled by Quint, as the pair headed into the home stretch racing almost as a team. The stewards rejected the protest. The payoff on Quint was $10.60, $3.40 and $2.20. Impressive paid $2.40 and $2.20. Buffle had a $2.20 show tag.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK. -- Swift Ruler turned on the steam in the stretch and sprinted to a three-quarters of a length victory in the $50,000 Oaklawn Handicap. He paid $4, $3.60 and $2.80. Big Brigade returned $8.20 and $4.40, and Old Coin showed for $3.60.

BALTIMORE, MD. -- Trainer Bernie Bond started a three-horse entry in the $25,000-added Dunganon Handicap at Pimlico and watched them finish one-two-three. Wise to Right was the winner, Old Davy was second and Navy Admiral third. The mutuels were $2.80 and $2.20. There was no show betting the the six horse race.

Independent Tourney Starts Tonight At Essex

ESSEX -- Some of the top basketball talent of this area will be on display during the Essex, Mo. Independent tournament starting Monday, March 28. Teams from twelve towns in the vicinity will make up the sixteen team tournament. Sikeston will contribute four teams and Dexter two. The tournament will be held in the Essex Junior High School gymnasium with action getting underway each evening at 7:00.

Three games will be played each evening of the tournament as opening round games and quarter-finals are run off. Two semi-final games will be played on Friday night, with the finals coming at 8:15 Saturday evening. A consolation game will be played at 7:00 on the final night.

Other towns represented in the tournament will be Gray Ridge, Vanduser, East Prairie, Essex, Parma, New Madrid, Morley, Bloomfield, Malden, and Idalia. Pre-tournament favorites appear to be Gray Ridge in the upper bracket and Eldorado of Sikeston in the lower bracket. However, in a tournament of this kind it is difficult to single teams to be favored in each game since there is little competition between them during the year. At any rate action should be fast and furious in each game.

Boy Scout Troop #79 is sponsoring this tournament and all proceeds will go to further the activities in this organization. The public is invited to come and enjoy some excellent basketball while at the same time supporting this most worthwhile group.

Tonight's action will pit Sikeston (Kindle's) against Parma, host Essex against Dexter (Long's) and end the night's action with the game between Vanduser and East Prairie.

Dexter Will Have Curfew

DEXTER -- A curfew ordinance which will prohibit juveniles 18 years old and under from loitering on the streets after 10:30 p.m. week nights and 11 p.m. Saturday night was passed by the City Council Monday night.

The ordinance took effect Friday. The ordinance specifically prohibits persons 18 years old and under from "loitering or loitering on the streets" after the specified hours.

The ordinance is not effective when the youngsters are accompanied by their parents, it was pointed out.

Under terms of the new city law, police will have the power to arrest the juveniles. The maximum penalty is a fine of $25.

The curfew ordinance is the first in Dexter in many years, it was pointed out. Some other cities and towns, both large and small, have such ordinances, it was explained.

The ordinance states that the act of "loitering or lingering on the streets" after the specified hours is a misdemeanor, punishable by not less than $1 nor more than $25.

For Saturday night, the curfew hour will be 11 p.m. On all other nights the curfew hour will be 10:30 p.m.

Steelworker Sinks Hole-In-One Twice

PITTSBURGH, AP -- Andy Kandrack has been playing golf for eight years; and he says he never saw a hole-in-one.

The 36-year-old steelworker sank two of them Sunday on suburban Green Valley public golf course. Kandrack used a seven iron on the 147-yard third hole and an eight iron on the 130-yard fifth hole to accomplish the feat.

Three persons playing with him and several others on the course witnessed the shots.

He finished nine holes with two eagles, two bogeys and five pars for a two-under-par 33. Kandrack, who said he usually shoots in the low 80s, didn't go back out for a second nine because he said the excitement was too much.

Bathboy 007, Mets Player in Secret Talk

SARASOTA, FLA. (Special) -- During the New York Mets batting practice Friday, the Chisox bathboy, a little tyke named Bill Dee, with 007 on the back of his uniform, was loitering, wide-mouthed, around the batting cage.

"I know what you're doing here," said Ron Swoboda, Met power hitter, mysteriously. "You're spying on us. You want to learn all our secrets and take them back to your team."

"What secrets?" said the boy. Swoboda thought for a moment. "That a good question," he said.

Baseball Suit Goes Into Fifth Week

MILWAUKEE, AP -- The defense continued its presentation today in Wisconsin's anti-trust suit against baseball as the April 12 date for the National League Braves' opener in Atlanta drew closer.

The trial is now in its fifth week in Circuit Court here.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Stanley M. Swinton, an assistant general manager of The Associated Press, first went to Indonesia in early 1946 and headed The AP's Jakarta office in 1946-47 during the Indonesian fight for independence. Tuesday he was one of the first American newsmen admitted to the country since President Sukarno expelled U.S. news representatives Jan. 19.

An AP News Analysis
By STANLEY M. SWINTON
JAKARTA (AP) — The wind of fundamental change apparently is sweeping across Indonesia.

President Sukarno officially remains chief of state, but army Lt. Gen. Suharto and his military allies hold the real power. The best-informed sources in this hot and humid capital believe the new leaders are far more than a military junta. They expect Suharto and his colleagues to install a primarily civilian government with powerful military backing behind the scenes.

Internationally, Indonesia's new regime is expected to be neutralist in deed as well as word. Sukarno gave lip service to neutralism but moved steadily toward the Chinese Communist camp. The new Indonesia is expected to follow the type of international role played by the late Prime Minister Nehru of India.

Men long on the scene here predict that in the years immediately ahead, Indonesia's new leaders will dedicate themselves to restoring the nation's shattered economy.

Food is the immediate problem. Rice is the staple for Indonesia's more than 105 million people. Today it costs 30 times what it did 14 months ago.

The rains came late this year, so the rice harvest will not take place until May, a month late. In the chaos of the last year, transport was disrupted, so that rice shortages have been aggravated in the cities and in such densely populated rural areas as Central and East Java.

So far Indonesia's new leaders have not asked for outside assistance to meet the growing food shortage. When they do, they are likely to turn to Japan or some other similar nation, rather than to the United States or the Soviet Union.

This would avoid any internal criticism that the new regime is turning either toward the Americans or the Soviets.

When the food crisis has been surmounted, Indonesia's leaders must face the herculean task of rebuilding the whole economy. While the economies of other nations have been growing, the per capita gross national product in Indonesia has declined between one and two per cent each year for a decade.

Meanwhile, Indonesia's population has been growing an estimated 2.5 per cent a year. The 3,000 luxuriant islands which make up the Indonesian Archipelago basically are underpopulated. But Java, with seven per cent of Indonesia's land area, has 70 per cent of the population. Tied to their island by history and tradition, only a few thousand Javanese emigrate to the sparsely populated outer islands. In Central Java, one of the most densely inhabited areas on earth, population growth is a staggering 2.7 per cent a year.

Unlike India, where a government birth control program is slowly beginning to show some results, nothing has been done in Indonesia to reduce population growth.

Indonesia's new leaders recognize that their overwhelming problem is to build an economy which can feed the exploding population and give each Indonesian more of the material benefits so long denied him.

Ever since the Japanese army of occupation installed him as Indonesia's leader during World War II, Sukarno has been the man who symbolized independence in the minds of Indonesia's masses.

"Man does not live by bread alone," the aging Bung — Big Brother — Karno would shout as he played his role of father of the nation, orator, and oracle.

But man does not live by slogans alone either. The fierce appeals to nationalism which brought cheers and devotion 20 years ago faded with repetition. Foreign aid — mainly from the United States and the Soviet Union — propped up an incredibly disorganized economy. But then foreign aid ran out, too.

It was the young people of Indonesia — university and high school students — who went into the streets to drive an effective wedge between Sukarno and the people who had for so many years idolized him.

The student movement represents the best in Indonesian youth, according to people stationed here. They say that the students who led the demonstrations will be the leaders of Indonesia tomorrow. They were willing to risk their lives to insure Indonesia's future.

The Minute Man Symbol

The "Minute Man", gun in hand and plow behind him, has stood as the symbol for the U. S. Savings Bond program since May 1, 1941, when the program was initiated.

The Treasury symbol is adapted from the bronze statue of the Minute Man of Concord, which stands by the rude bridge that arched the flood" in Emerson's poem memorializing the spot where "once the embattled farmers stood and fired the shot heard 'round the world'".

As a symbol, the Minute Man has appeared millions of times over on posters, Savings Stamps and in advertising since 1941. The term Minute Man was in use during World War One, in promoting the Liberty Loans. Volunteer bond speakers were called Three-Minute Men and were closely tied. And, the doughty Minute Man was in common currency as a patriotic symbol even before the statue was created.

The Minute Man statue was unveiled in Concord on April 19, Patriot's Day, in 1875. Ralph Waldo Emerson, "The Sage of Concord," and author of the poem, spoke briefly on the occasion and James Russell Lowell read the ode. Daniel French, the 25-year-old sculptor who had done the statue for a fee of $1000, was in Italy, studying sculpture after the two-year job. French's later works include the George Washington memorial in Paris, 1900; the statue of Lafayette in Lafayette Park, across from the White House, 1922; and the magnificent seated Lincoln in the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, 1920.

The Minute Man was the first major work of Daniel Chester French, who was born in Exeter, N. H., the son of a lawyer, judge and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. Daniel was 19 and the family was living near Concord when, by carving a frog from a turnip, he convinced his family his talent was worth developing. After winning some local fame with carvings of animals and birds, he went to Brooklyn, where he learned the rudiments of sculpture from John Quincy Adams Ward.

He was modestly launched on a sculpturing career, in 1873, when he began working on the Minute Man, using a huge east of the Apollo Belvedere as his model. The town meeting voted approval of his design and eventually French got his $1000 at a time when other sculptors were getting $40,000 and more for public monuments.

Daniel Chester French was already celebrated as the greatest of American sculptors at the turn of the century, almost a quarter-century before his masterpiece, the seated Lincoln, was completed. He died at 81, ten years before his Minute Man became the symbol of the great-stained patriotic program in history.

In this 25th Anniversary year of the U. S. Savings Bonds program, millions of citizens continue to do him honor — as volunteers and as participants in a program which offers shares in America.

Sports Round-Up

BASKETBALL
CINCINNATI, OHIO -- The Boston Celtics staged a strong finish to defeat the Cincinnati Royals, 132-125, and even their National Basketball Association semi-final playoff at one game apiece.

The Royals rolled to a 13-point lead in the second quarter as they ran the score to 50-37, but Boston fought back and only trailed 71-68 at the half. The Royals led by six points at the third period, but Sam Jones and Bill Russell started to click for the Celtics in the final session. Jones led all the scorers with 42 points, and Russell caged 25 and picked off 16 rebounds. Oscar Robertson, who had 35 points, fouled out near the end of the game. The Royals also lost Happy Hairstone and Wayne Embry on fouls.

LEXINGTON, KY. -- All-American Cassie Russell of Michigan set the pace as the East exploded in the second half and trounced the West, 126-99, in the College All-Star game. Russell collected 24 points, 17 in the second half. Dave Schellhase of Purdue came up with 17 points. Oregon's Jim Barrett and Jerry Chambers of Utah shared the scoring honors for the West with 19 points apiece.

HORSE RACING
AINTREE, ENGLAND -- The bookies had a reason to smile as Angelo a 50-1 shot won the gruelling Grand National steeplechase by 20-lengths. Angelo's victory saved the bookies from paying out an estimated 2.8 million.

Freddie, the 11-4 favorite who finished second, and third-place Forest Prince were two of the six horses that were linked with Riot Act, winner of Wednesday's Lincolnshire flat race, in what is known in Britain as the spring double. A victory for any one of the six would have meant winnings up to 2.8 million for the bettors.

Angelo jumped the last fence about a length in the lead, then romped off with the race.

MIAMI, FLA. -- First Family, ridden by apprentice jockey Earlie Fries, scored a stunning upset in the $14,200 Gulfstream Park Handicap in a blinding rain storm. First Family, breezing home by a length and half, paid $26.80, $9.20 and $4.40. Selari returned $3.80 and $2.80, while Trio Viejo, an entry with Tronado, paid $3 to show.

NEW YORK -- Quinto, surviving a claim of foul, romped to a three-length victory in the $28,900 Bay Shore at Aqueduct. Kenny Knapp, astride Impressive, claimed he was fouled by Quinto, as the pair headed into the home stretch racing almost as a team. The stewards rejected the protest. The payoff on Quinto was $10.60, $3.40 and $2.20. Impressive paid $2.40 and $2.20. Buffle had a $2.20 show tag.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK. -- Swift Ruler turned on the steam in the stretch and sprinted to a three-quarters of a length victory in the $50,000 Oaklawn Handicap. He paid $4, $3.60 and $2.80. Big Brigade returned $8.20 and $4.40, and Old Coin showed for $3.60.

BALTIMORE, MD. -- Trainer Bernie Bond started a three-horse entry in the $25,000-added Duncannon Handicap at Pimlico and watched them finish one-two-three. Wise to Right was the winner, Old Davy was second and Navy Admiral third. The mutuels were $2.80 and $2.20. There was no show betting the six horse race.

ALBANY, CAL. -- Beau Rivage paid $8.60, $4.60 and $3.60 in taking the East bay Handicap at Golden Gate Fields. Baron Gruder refunded $5.40 and $4, and Harry Gelbert was $4.40 to show.

LINCOLN, R. L. -- Sea Service had little trouble taking the $5000 New Haven Handicap, winning by three lengths. Sea Service returned $9.40, $4.60 and $4. The entry of Tick Tack and Chance Date returned $4.20 and $4.60.

TRACK
CLAREMONT, CALIF. -- John Punnell of the Southern California Striders vaulted 17 feet, one inch to highlight the fifth annual Claremont Relays. Long Beach State and San Diego State each scored 44 points to tie for the team title.

SANTA BARBARA, CALIF. -- Tommie Smith anchored three winning relay teams for San Jose State College in the 28th annual Santa Barbara Easter Relays. UCLA won the team title with 53 points.

PORT OF SPAIN, TRINIDAD -- Joe Lynch, former Georgetown U. distance star, won the 5000 meter run and Norm Tate of Durham, N. C., captured the triple jump as American athletes dominated the opening program in an international meet.

PERTH, AUSTRALIA -- America's Jim Grella defeated a strong international field in winning the 1500 meter run at the Australian championships in 3:43.3. Aussie Keith Wheeler was 15 yards back in second place.

SWIMMING
AIR FORCE ACADEMY, COLO. -- Two-time champion Roy Saari edged Utah's Mike Garibaldi in a gruelling 1650-yard freestyle duel to lead Southern California to its fourth straight NCAA team championship. Saari won the 1650, 500 and 200-yard freestyle events for the third consecutive year to account for 48 of Southern Cal's 302 points. Indiana was second with 286 points and Michigan third with 253. Southern Illinois' Gerald Pearson was fifth in the 200-yard breaststroke, won by Wayne Anderson of Southern Cal.

WRESTLING
AMES, IA. -- Oklahoma State captured its 25th national championship, edging defending titlist Iowa State and Oklahoma in the 36th NCAA tournament. Oklahoma State scored 79 points to 70 for Iowa State and 69 for Oklahoma.

IF YOU'RE BUYING A NEW HOME, CHECK THE HEATING SYSTEM
Since the home's heating plant represents about 10 percent of its value, this is one area in which builders sometimes cut corners when they want to keep down costs. But for the home buyer, this is false economy, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau points out. The family's health as well as its comfort depend on heat that is even and draft-free.

So if you're planning to buy a new home this summer, don't forget to investigate the heating plant you're getting, and ask a qualified heating contractor to tell you how each type available works. A top-quality type is the hydronic, or hot water system, which delivers even, draft-free heat by means of hot water circulated from a boiler through baseboard panels installed along the walls in each room.

Independent Tourney Starts Tonight At Essex

ESSEX -- Some of the top basketball talent of this area will be on display during the Essex, Mo. Independent tournament starting Monday, March 28. Teams from twelve towns in the vicinity will make up the sixteen team tournament. Sikeston will contribute four teams and Dexter two. The tournament will be held in the Essex Junior High School gymnasium with action getting underway each evening at 7:00. Three games will be played each evening the first four nights of the tournament as opening round games and quarter-finals are run off. Two semi-final games will be played on Friday night, with the finals coming at 8:15 Saturday evening. A consolation game will be played at 7:00 on the final night.

Other towns represented in the tournament will be Gray Ridge, Vanduser, East Prairie, Essex, Parma, New Madrid, Morley, Bloomfield, Malden, and Idalia. Pre-tournament favorites appear to be Gray Ridge in the upper bracket and Eldorados of Sikeston in the lower bracket. However, in a tournament of this kind it is difficult to single teams to be favored in each game since there is little competition between them during the year. At any rate action should be fast and furious in each game.

Boy Scout Troop #79 is sponsoring this tournament and all proceeds will go to further the activities in this organization. The public is invited to come and enjoy some excellent basketball while at the same time supporting this most worthwhile group.

Tonight's action will pit Sikeston (Kindle's) against Parma, host Essex against Dexter (Long's) and end the night's action with the game between Vanduser and East Prairie.

Dexter Will Have Curfew
DEXTER -- A curfew ordinance which will prohibit juveniles 18 years old and under from loitering on the streets after 10:30 p.m. week nights and 11 p.m. Saturday night was passed by the City Council Monday night.

The ordinance took effect Friday. The ordinance specifically prohibits persons 18 years old and under from "loitering or loitering on the streets" after the specified hours. The ordinance is not effective when the youngsters are accompanied by their parents, it was pointed out.

Under terms of the new city law, police will have the power to arrest the juveniles. The maximum penalty is a fine of $25. The curfew ordinance is the first in Dexter in many years, it was pointed out. Some other cities and towns, both large and small, have such ordinances, it was explained.

The ordinance states that the act of "loitering or loitering on the streets" after the specified hours is a misdemeanor, punishable by not less than $1 nor more than $25. For Saturday night, the curfew hour will be 11 p.m. On all other nights the curfew hour will be 10:30 p.m.

Steelworker Sinks Hole-In-One Twice

PITTSBURGH, AP -- Andy Kandrack has been playing golf for eight years; and he says he never saw a hole-in-one.

The 36-year-old steelworker sank two of them Sunday on suburban Green Valley public golf course. Kandrack used a seven iron on the 147-yard third hole and an eight iron on the 130-yard fifth hole to accomplish the feat.

Three persons playing with him and several others on the course witnessed the shots. He finished nine holes with two eagles, two bogeys and five pars for a two-under-par 33. Kandrack, who said he usually shoots in the low 80s, didn't go back out for a second nine because he said the excitement was too much.

Batboy 007, Mets' Player in Secret Talk

SARASOTA, FLA. (Special) -- During the New York Mets batting practice Friday, the Chisox batboy, a little tyke named Bill Dee, with 007 on the back of his uniform, was loitering, wide-mouthed, around the batting cage.

"I know what you're doing here," said Ron Swoboda, Met power hitter, mysteriously. "You're spying on us. You want to learn all our secrets and take them back to your team."

"What secrets?" said the boy. Swoboda thought for a moment. "That a good question," he said.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Stanley M. Swinton, an assistant general manager of The Associated Press, first went to Indonesia in early 1946 and headed The AP's Jakarta office in 1946-47 during the Indonesian fight for independence. Tuesday he was one of the first American newsmen admitted to the country since President Sukarno expelled U.S. news representatives Jan. 19.

An AP News Analysis
By STANLEY M. SWINTON
JAKARTA (AP) — The wind of fundamental change apparently is sweeping across Indonesia.

President Sukarno officially remains chief of state, but army Lt. Gen. Suharto and his military allies hold the real power. The best-informed sources in this hot and humid capital believe the new leaders are far more than a military junta. They expect Suharto and his colleagues to install a primarily civilian government with powerful military backing behind the scenes.

Internationally, Indonesia's new regime is expected to be neutralist in deed as well as word. Sukarno gave lip service to neutralism but moved steadily toward the Chinese Communist camp. The new Indonesia is expected to follow the type of international role played by the late Prime Minister Nehru of India.

Men long on the scene here predict that in the years immediately ahead, Indonesia's new leaders will dedicate themselves to restoring the nation's shattered economy.

Food is the immediate problem. Rice is the staple for Indonesia's more than 105 million people. Today it costs 30 times what it did 14 months ago.

The rains came late this year, so the rice harvest will not take place until May, a month late. In the chaos of the last year, transport was disrupted, so that rice shortages have been aggravated in the cities and in such densely populated rural areas as Central and East Java.

So far Indonesia's new leaders have not asked for outside assistance to meet the growing food shortage. When they do, they are likely to turn to Japan or some other similar nation,

The "Minute Man", gun in hand and plow behind him, has stood as the symbol for the U. S. Savings Bond program since May 1, 1941, when the program was initiated.

The Treasury symbol is adapted from the bronze statue of the Minute Man of Concord, which stands "by the rude bridge that arched the flood" in Emerson's poem memorializing the spot where "once the embattled farmers stood and fired the shot heard round the world."

As a symbol, the Minute Man has appeared millions of times over on posters, Savings Stamps and in advertising since 1941. The term Minute Man was in use during World War One, in promoting the Liberty Loans. Volunteer bond speakers were called Three-Minute Men and were closely timed. And, the doughty Minute Man was in common currency as a patriotic symbol even before the statue was created.

The Minute Man statue was unveiled in Concord on April 19, Patriot's Day, in 1875. Ralph Waldo Emerson, "The Sage of Concord," and author of the poem, spoke briefly on the occasion and James Russell Lowell read the ode. Daniel French, the 25-year-old sculptor who had done the statue for a fee of $1000, was in Italy, studying sculpture after the two-year job. French's later works include the George Washington memorial in Paris, 1900; the statue of Lafayette in Lafayette Park, across from the White House, 1922; and the magnificent seated Lincoln in the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, 1920.

The Minute Man was the first major work of Daniel Chester French, who was born in Exeter, N. H., the son of a lawyer, judge and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. Daniel was 19 and the family was living near Concord when, by caring a frog from a turnip, he convinced his family his talent was worth developing. After winning some local fame with carvings of animals and birds, he went to Brooklyn, where he learned the rudiments of sculpture from John Quincy Adams Ward.

He was modestly launched on a sculptural career, in 1873, when he began working on the Minute Man, using a huge cast of the Apollo Belvedere as his model. The town meeting voted approval of his design and eventually French got his $1000 at a time when other sculptors were getting $1000 and more for public monuments.

Daniel Chester French was already celebrated as the greatest of American sculptors at the turn of the century, almost a quarter-century before his masterpiece, the seated Lincoln, was completed. He died at 81, ten years before his Minute Man became the symbol of the greatest sustained patriotic program in history.

In this 25th Anniversary year of the U. S. Savings Bonds program, millions of citizens continue to do him honor — as volunteers and as participants in a program which offers shares in America.

Selection of Atom Smasher Site Is Dream Come True

NEW YORK (AP) — Selection as one of six possible sites for a proposed $375-million atom smasher should be a Chamber of Commerce dream come true. And it is for all but one of the finalists, South Barrington, Ill., near Chicago, where the people wish the federal facility would go somewhere else.

Arthur Hogfelt, the village president, said: "We moved out for privacy and fresh air and that's about it. We don't want to move. You might say they're purely selfish reasons — but what else is there?"

The other finalists, including Weston, Ill., an alternate to South Barrington, are actively seeking the atom smasher. "It's the scientific plum of the century," said Arthur Theriault, president of Weston Village, which is 15 miles away from South Barrington.

A site selection committee of the National Academy of Sciences recommended six spots in six states Tuesday as possible locations for the 200-billion-electron-volt — BRV — accelerator designed to probe nature's innermost secrets.

In alphabetical order, they are: Ann Arbor, Mich.; Brookhaven National Laboratory at Upton, Long Island, N.Y.; Denver, Colo.; Madison, Wis.; the Sierra foothills 20 miles east of Sacramento, Calif.; and South Barrington (or Weston), Ill.

Former Investigator Tampers With Ratings

Lights Move On To Wisconsin and Ohio

DETROIT AP -- Michigan's weird, blinking lights apparently have extended their appearances into Ohio and Wisconsin.

The reports of sightings, limited for nearly two weeks to southern Michigan, came from some 100 miles north of Michigan's "thumb" district, across Lake Michigan at Green Bay, Wis., and south near Toledo and Dayton, Ohio.

As before, there was no full explanation.

So far, the only authoritative analysis has been the swamp-gas theory advanced Friday by a Northwestern University astrophysicist concerning two sightings in southern Michigan.

The scientist, Dr. J. Allen Hynek, who also is an Air Force special consultant, has gotten arguments from those who reported seeing the mysterious flying objects.

Ohio highway patrolman R. D. Landversicht said Sunday he saw a strange light approaching Wright Patterson Air Force Base near Dayton. He reportedly photographed the lights and the Air Force develops the films today.

Wright Patterson is the home of the National Unidentified Aerial Phenomena Office, called Project Blue Book.

Maj. Hector Quintanilla, Blue Book project officer, said, "It's not unusual after incidents such as these in Michigan last week to get a lot of 'sighting' reports. It's a normal aftermath pattern."

In the Toledo area Sunday night a member of the Sylvania fire department furnished a local radio station with a detailed account of his observations.

Nonmilitary Money Vote To Be Today

Despite those cuts, 14 of the 16 Republican members of the Appropriation Committee have complained that the supplementary money bill still is too high. The supplemental money bill is the major item on the House schedule this week, and also the only major item for Congress. The Senate has no substantial bills scheduled for floor action. NEW YORK (AP) — Selection as one of six possible sites for a proposed $375-million atom smasher should be a Chamber of Commerce dream come true. And it is for all but one of the finalists, South Barrington, Ill., near Chicago, where the people wish the federal facility would go somewhere else.

Arthur Hogfelt, the village president, said: "We moved out for privacy and fresh air and that's about it. We don't want to move. You might say they're purely selfish reasons — but what else is there?"

The other finalists, including Weston, Ill., an alternate to South Barrington, are actively seeking the atom smasher. "It's the scientific plum of the century," said Arthur Theriault, president of Weston Village, which is 15 miles away from South Barrington.

A site selection committee of the National Academy of Sciences recommended six spots in six states Tuesday as possible locations for the 200-billion-electron-volt — BRV — accelerator designed to probe nature's innermost secrets.

In alphabetical order, they are: Ann Arbor, Mich.; Brookhaven National Laboratory at Upton, Long Island, N.Y.; Denver, Colo.; Madison, Wis.; the Sierra foothills 20 miles east of Sacramento, Calif.; and South Barrington (or Weston), Ill.

Congress has not approved construction of the atom smasher, but if and when it does, it will be the world's largest and it will be the costliest single scientific installation ever built.

A hundred communities had sought the facility, which would cost $60 million a year to run and would bring in 2,400 resident scientists. The lobbying for selection was almost unprecedented.

The final selection will be up to the Atomic Energy Commission.

At least two state legislatures are ready to meet to enhance their state's effort to get the facility. The Wisconsin Legislature, which meets in May, is reported ready to adopt whatever legislation may be necessary. It already has pledged up to $10 million in state funds to make any site improvements required by the AEC.

Gene Graves, director of the Illinois Department of Business and Economic Development, said in Springfield that Gov. Otto Kerner will call a special session of the legislature if one of the Illinois sites is selected so that money can be appropriated to buy land to donate.

Harlan Hatcher, president of the University of Michigan, said he was "very pleased" that Ann Arbor was among the finalists. The presence of the accelerator, he said, would be "highly significant to education, science and research."

Ann Arbor Mayor Wendell Hulcher said he saw it as a mixed blessing that would bring a great economic influx to the community — and problems. "Some of our folks have not been particularly anxious to have it," he said, "but on the other hand it also has broad general support."

At Brookhaven Laboratory, 65 miles east of New York City, a spokesman said, "There is no jubilation here. The laboratory feels it should be one of the logical sites for the accelerator."

Gov. John A. Love of Colorado said the selection of the Denver site "was most gratifying. We will continue to emphasize all of the unique advantages we offer and we are confident that our case will be sufficiently persuasive to turn the tide in our favor."

Gov. Warren P. Knowles of Wisconsin sounded a word of caution: "There is a long road to travel before this becomes a reality."

In California, Gov. Edmund G. Brown said selection of the Sierra foothills site pleased him, "but I am not surprised." He said California is a world leader in science and technology because of the heavy investment in higher education.

Former Investigator Tampers With Ratings

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK AP -- Television's most tantalizing suspense story of the weekend — and probably for many days to come — was not on the small screens. It involves the industry reaction to disclosure that a former investigator had tampered with the A.C. Nielsen ratings.

The research company has filed a damage suit against Rex Sparger, who told reporters in Oklahoma City that he had attempted to rig ratings on four shows, including the recent Carol Channing special and the Bob Hope Christmas show. His purpose, he said, was to gather material for a book he was writing.

Television network experts have always said that the A.C. Nielsen Co. ratings were only one of many tools used in judging the success or failure of a program. Nielsen's ratings are based on program choices of a national audience sample of about 1,200 homes.

Over the seasons, television's rule-by-ratings has been a highly controversial subject. Ratings have been objects of congressional and Federal Communications Commission hearings. Sponsors and advertising agencies turn to ratings because there is no more exact method available to measure an audience. The cost of a commercial message in evening network programs stands at around $30,000 per minute and can go up to twice that.

Sheer size of audience, however, is but one measure and the Nielsen reports are among many in the field.

Now that it is known that Nielsen's super-secret list of sample homes can be cracked and some of the families reached, the whole rating procedure appears to be due for inspection.

The three networks interrupted Saturday programs for the long press conference of the Gemini 8 astronauts. Viewers anticipated a hair-raising adventure yarn.

The two young men, however, reported their space trip in the driest technical language, much of it impossible for the layman to follow. Their calm detachment made the flight and emergency return sound about as exciting and perilous as a weekend fishing trip cut short by a balky outboard motor.

Ozarks News Bureau
WASHINGTON, D. C. — Missouri has 136,500 "disadvantaged" children, but officials of the state will have $7 million left from federal funds sent the state to aid them, the U. S. Commissioner Howard Howe, told the House appropriations committee here Saturday.

He explained that $29.9 was allotted to the state to aid the deprived children. By February, 39 per cent of it had been programmed for spending. He predicted that by the end of the fiscal year (June 30) $22 million of the fund will have been used.

Funds offered the state department of Education to help administer the state schools will have an unused amount at the end of the year, he said. The state was given $298.6 thousand for school aid.

While there is unused sums in these two programs, Howe is asking Congress for supplemental funds for other programs. He wants Congress to give him an extra $682 thousand for vocational education in Missouri and $15.3 thousand for vocational loans.

Lights Move On To Wisconsin and Ohio

DETROIT AP -- Michigan's weird, blinking lights apparently have extended their appearances into Ohio and Wisconsin.

The reports of sightings, limited for nearly two weeks to southern Michigan, came from some 100 miles north of Michigan's "thumb" district, across Lake Michigan at Green Bay, Wis., and south near Toledo and Dayton, Ohio.

As before, there was no full explanation.

So far, the only authoritative analysis has been the swamp-gas theory advanced Friday by a Northwestern University astrophysicist concerning two sightings in southern Michigan.

The scientist, Dr. J. Allen Hynek, who also is an Air Force special consultant, has gotten arguments from those who reported seeing the mysterious flying objects.

Ohio highway patrolman R. D. Landversicht said Sunday he saw a strange light approaching Wright Patterson Air Force Base near Dayton. He reportedly photographed the lights and the Air Force develops the films today.

Wright Patterson is the home of the National Unidentified Aerial Phenomena Office, called Project Blue Book.

Maj. Hector Quintanilla, Blue Book project officer, said, "It's not unusual for incidents such as these in Michigan last week to get a lot of 'sighting' reports. It's a normal aftermath pattern."

In the Toledo area Sunday night a member of the Sylvania fire department furnished a local radio station with a detailed account of his observations.

Equipped with binoculars, the observer described four objects he said changed color from red to green to white -- "They kind of look like a star when you first see them, but they blink on and off," he said.

Hynek said at his Evanston, Ill., home Sunday that his conclusion that two Michigan sightings probably were swamp gas applied only to the sightings reported in the Hillsdale and Dexter area.

Several observers said they felt the explanation was inadequate.

Nonmilitary Money Vote To Be Today

WASHINGTON AP -- The House votes today on the first nonmilitary money bill of 1966 with Republicans poised to touch off another round in the "guns vs. butter" debate.

The $2.5-billion supplemental appropriation bill primarily would finance general government operations. But it also includes drastically curtailed funds for two of President Johnson's new "Great Society" domestic programs -- rent subsidies and the Teacher Corps. The President had sought $30 million to get the rent subsidy program under way and $13.2 million for the Teacher Corps, but House Appropriations Committee members slashed these amounts to $12 and $10 million, respectively.

Despite those cuts, 14 of the 16 Republican members of the Appropriation Committee have complained that the supplementary money bill still is too high.

The supplemental money bill is the major item on the House schedule this week, and also the only major item for Congress. The Senate has no substantial bills scheduled for floor action.

In the House, Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S. C., has rescheduled hearings by the Armed Services Committee on

Indonesian Mess Will Take Years to Clean Up

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Indonesia's new rulers have inherited a financial mess which even optimists concede will require years to clean up. The reform regime's popularity and survival are likely to depend on the outcome.

For Indonesia to meet her 1966 foreign debt obligations would require $450 million. Indonesia has not a hope of paying.

Foreign exchange reserves are exhausted. The nation lives on current earnings, derived almost entirely from rubber, oil, tin and copra.

Oil revenues are not revealed officially, but an industry source estimates they were $75 million in 1965.

Rubber, tin, copra and other exports earned an estimated $450 million. That adds up to foreign exchange earnings of $525 million last year.

But this is a nation of 105 million people. Enough imports to keep the Indonesian economy sputtering along even at quarter speed cost $350 million last year.

While President Sukarno's regime squandered millions of dollars on official and private trips abroad, only partial payments were made on foreign obligations. Not only did these partial payments exhaust the remaining $175 million but a great deficit yawned.

How about 1966? It is likely to be worse than 1965.

The Ministry of Trade this month announced a $400-million target for non-oil earnings. If the oil revenue remains at last year's estimate of $75 million, and the remainder of Indonesia's economy meets the ministry's target, Indonesia will earn $475 million this year abroad.

That is $325 million less than the sum needed to meet due or overdue foreign debts and to maintain essential imports even at last year's precarious levels.

Foreign economists believe a moratorium is inevitable on payment of all or part of the $450 million due on foreign debts this year.

So far Lt. Gen. Suharto's new regime has been too preoccupied with consolidating its power to take action on this or the basic economic reforms for which inflation-tormented Indonesians are pleading.

In terms of total debt the Soviet Union is Indonesia's biggest creditor. Obligations to the Soviets total $1 billion.

Japan is the most important non-Communist creditor, although no figure is available here for the combined public and private debt owed her.

Some $200 million is due the United States, West Germany and the Netherlands rank next. Britain and France are owed more modest sums.

Foreign economic circles expect that once the reform regime is well established, creditor nations will form a consortium and stretch out Indonesia's foreign debt payments over a longer period.

This would give Suharto's government a chance to get the economy running again, to fight inflation with lower priced imports and perhaps to put aside funds for capital investment.

Fresh capital investment, whether from the government or private sectors, is essential.

Indonesia has the curious distinction during 10 years of prosperity over much of the globe of having had her gross national product decline from one to two per cent annually while her population rose 2.5 per cent a year.

An estimated $175 million goes into smuggling and black market currency transactions. Unrealistic valuation of the rupiah is the reason. The rupiah has risen to 50 to the dollar in the free market, confidence in the Suharto regime having firmed it from the March 11 low of 61 to the dollar. However, the government gives exporters only 10 rupiahs for each dollar.

Tourists receive 20, only 40 per cent of the rate they can get on any street corner in Jakarta.

One expert estimates 10 per cent of Indonesian exports are smuggled out of the country to neighboring countries where payment is made in hard currency.

Informed economists here say these steps are essential to check the spread of economic decay:

1. Refunding of foreign debts through an international consortium of creditors.

2. A crackdown on smuggling and the currency black market.

3. Integration into the international financial community. President Sukarno pulled Indonesia out of the International Monetary Fund, Indonesia is not participating in the new Asia Development Bank. This has made the island republic an economic outcast.

4. End deficit financing of the internal budget, which has been wildly out of balance for years.

5. Reintroduce long-range economic planning. There has been none of significance since the 1963 stabilization program was abandoned when the undeclared war on Malaysia began.

6. Establish at least a fundamental industrial base for the raw-material economy which cannot provide jobs for the swelling population.

7. Revive and expand the tourist industry.

Experts believe tourism could bring in millions of dollars a year.

Officials for Vote Chosen

DEXTER -- Dexter voters will be permitted to vote on whether they want Daylight Saving Time for this summer. The vote will be in connection with the city election April 5.

That action was officially taken at Monday night's City Council session, presided over by Mayor Melvin Gainer. The Council voted to rescind its previous action when it officially "adopted" daylight time for the summer.

But under the new act, as adopted Monday night, the issue will be put to a vote of the people at the April 5 balloting. The vote would not be legally binding on the Council. It was pointed out, but would show the sentiments of the people regarding the "fast time" issue.

R. W. Richmond and Earl Bagby were appointed members of the Dexter Airport Board by Mayor Gainer and the appointments were approved by the City Council Monday night. Richmond is a new member of the board and Bagby is a re-appointment. The two men were recommended to the Mayor by the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors. The Airport Board has supervision over airport affairs.

Regarding the election of April 5, at which time the city will select a Mayor, three Aldermen, a City Marshal, a City Collector and a City Police Judge, the Council Monday night named the judges and clerks for the three wards. The election officials will be as follows:

Ward 1 -- Walter A. Smith, Marie Miller, Elmer Wharry, Lovisa Miller; Ward 2 -- Ben Stewart, Ben Cowan, Sr., Florence Martin and Inogene Arnold; Ward 3 -- Mrs. W. S. Worley, Mrs. Zola Ledbetter, Mrs. Hazel Gaines and J. W. Stewart.

In other action Monday night the City Council opened bids for the disposal of two used trucks which the city wished to sell. High bidders were Webber Rambler for the International truck and Harry W. Foster for the Chevrolet truck. Both bids were accepted.

The City Council also established regulations regarding out-of-town photographers who want to work one or a few days in the city. The license rate for such photographers will be $5 per day. The annual license fee is $25 per year.

In other routine action the City Council adopted the so-called "Nelson Amendment" covering eligible activities of projects submitted for federal assistance under which chronically unemployed poor persons would be used in projects to improve or beautify the city.

Mayor Gainer also reported to the City Council on his conferences with officials of the Missouri Pacific Railroad relative to the erecting of a warning signal at the Catalina Street crossing here. As was reported earlier the railroad officials had promised to "strongly recommend" such a warning signal be installed but said that it would be necessary to close the rail crossing on Sassafras street. This crossing is seldom used but it would be necessary to close it, rail officials told the Mayor. This action is expected to be taken immediately.

Income Limits Set For Rent Subsidies

WASHINGTON AP -- Income limits to qualify for rent supplements under President Johnson's controversial program to aid low-income persons, were disclosed today.

The limits as set for some 70 cities were presented to a House appropriations subcommittee March 14 and the testimony was made public today. The subcommittee recommended only $12 million of the $30 million requested to get the program under way.

The full House Appropriations Committee voted today to accept the subcommittee's recommendation. It approved $100,000 in cash and $12 million in contract authority for the remainder of the fiscal year ending June 30.

The income limits for eligibility for rent supplements, based on families of four, would range from $2,700 annually to Fort Worth, Tex., to $5,760 in New York City. The department said families would not be considered if they had more than $2,000 in assets, or $5,000 in the case of elderly families.

The income limits included: St. Louis, $4,400; Kansas City $3,600.

Ceilings on monthly rentals anywhere would range from $85 for a minimum apartment to $140 for three-bedroom quarters. The corresponding mortgage ceilings would range from $7,650 to $12,550 with a 25 per cent differential allowable in a few high-cost areas.

Two Boys Made Wards

DEXTER -- Two Dexter youths, 12 and 13 years of age, have been made wards of the juvenile court and placed in their parents custody following a break-in of the Harris Sporting Goods Store here last week.

According to the Sheriff Ralph Temples, one of the boy's mother discovered some of the missing items in their home and called the Sheriff's office.

The boys gained entrance to the store by breaking a glass in the rear door. Among the items missing were two shot guns, wrist watches, knives, shells and a baseball mitt.

Sheriff Temples said that the two boys had not been involved in any trouble previously, as far as he knew.

When natural rubber became scarce during World War II, meteorological balloons were made of neoprene, a synthetic.

Jack Ward Given Silver Beaver Award

DEXTER -- The silver beaver award -- the highest award that can be given to a volunteer Scouter -- was presented Monday night to Jack Ward, advisor of Explorer post 200 and long active in the Scouting program in this area.

The award was presented at the annual Sioux District Appreciation banquet, attended by approximately 200 persons, and held at the Southwest elementary school.

In the citation, Ward was recognized for his work of more than 11 years in the Scouting program. For several years he served as an assistant scoutmaster and later as "an outstanding Explorer Post Advisor."

"He has been active with the Order of the Arrow and has been honored as a Vigil Honor member. For the past few years the Council has asked him to serve as lay advisor to the Order of the Arrow lodge. He has attended two national Order of the Arrow conferences. He has received the Order of the Arrow Distinguished Service Award," the citation pointed out.

Each summer, Ward takes his Explorer post young men on a long and extensive trip -- a "high adventure excursion" to such places as the World's Fair, to Philmont, or to other scenic and educational places throughout the country.

The presentation of the award was made by Ward's longtime friends in Scouting, Leslie Day and J. C. Newcomer. The presentation was the highlight of the evening's event, presided over by Thurston Hill.

Four awards, called the "Order of Merit" were presented to Sioux District volunteers who have long been active in the Scouting program. They include Hal Jean of Dexter, presently Sioux District Commissioner; Bill Rudeseal of Dexter, a member of the district committee and for many years a worker with the local Scouting program; Joe Welborn of Bloomfield, a member of the district committee and for many years a Boy Scout volunteer worker; and Ed Robertson of Lilbourn, a long time and active Scouter. The four awards were presented by Judge Marshal Craig of Sikeston, president of the Southeast Missouri Council, Dick Ray, SEMO Scout Executive, was also present and spoke briefly, congratulating the Sioux District Scout leaders on the program made during the past year.

Rubber, tin, copra and other exports earned an estimated $450 million. That adds up to foreign exchange earnings of $525 million last year.

But this is a nation of 105 million people. Enough imports to keep the Indonesian economy sputtering along even at quarter speed cost $350 million last year.

While President Sukarno's regime squandered millions of dollars on official and private trips abroad, only partial payments were made on foreign obligations. Not only did these partial payments exhaust the remaining $175 million but a great deficit yawned.

How about 1967?

It is likely to be worse than 1965.

The Ministry of Trade this month announced a $400-million target for non-oil earnings. If the oil revenue remains at last year's estimate of $75 million,

Jack Ward Given Silver Beaver Award

DEXTER -- The silver beaver award -- the highest award that can be given to a volunteer Scouter -- was presented Monday night to Jack Ward, advisor of Explorer post 200 and long active in the Scouting program in this area.

The award was presented at the annual Sioux District Appreciation banquet, attended by approximately 200 persons, and held at the Southwest elementary school.

In the citation, Ward was recognized for his work of more than 11 years in the Scouting program. For several years he served as an assistant scoutmaster and later as "an outstanding Explorer Post Advisor."

"He has been active with the Order of the Arrow and has been honored as a Vigil Honor member. For the past few years the Council has asked him to serve as lay advisor to the Order of the Arrow lodge. He has attended two national Order of the Arrow conferences. He has received the Order of the Arrow Distinguished Service Award," the citation pointed out.

Each summer, Ward takes his Explorer post young men on a long and extensive trip--a "high adventure excursion" to such places as the World's Fair, to Philmont, or to other scenic and educational places throughout the country.

The presentation of the award was made by Ward's longtime friends in Scouting, Leslie Day and J. C. Newcomer. The presentation was the highlight of the evening's event, presided over by Thurston Hill.

Four awards, called the "Order of Merit" were presented to Sioux District volunteers who have long been active in the Scouting program. They include Hal Jean of Dexter, presently Sioux District Commissioner; Bill Rudeseal of Dexter, a member of the district committee and for many years a worker with the local Scouting program; Joe Welborn of Bloomfield, a member of the district committee and for many years a Boy Scout volunteer worker; and Ed Robertson of Lilbourn, a long time and active Scouter. The four awards were presented by Judge Marshal Craig of Sikeston, president of the Southeast Missouri Council. Dick Ray, SEMO Scout Executive, was also present and spoke briefly, congratulating the Sioux District Scout leaders on the program made during the past year.

Officials for Vote Chosen

DEXTER -- Dexter voters will be permitted to vote on whether they want Daylight Saving Time for this summer. The vote will be in connection with the city election April 5.

That action was officially taken at Monday night's City Council session, presided over by Mayor Melvin Gainer. The Council voted to rescind its previous action when it officially "adopted" daylight time for the summer.

But under the new act, as adopted Monday night, the issue will be put to a vote of the people at the April 5 balloting. The vote would not be legally binding on the Council, it was pointed out, but would show the sentiments of the people regarding the "fast time" issue.

R. W. Richmond and Drl Bagby were appointed members of the Dexter Airport Board by Mayor Gainer and the appointments were approved by the City Council Monday night. Richmond is a new member of the board and Bagby is a re-appointment. The two men were recommended to the Mayor by the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors. The Airport Board has supervision over airport affairs.

Regarding the election of April 5, at which time the city will select a Mayor, three Aldermen, a City Marshal, a City Collector and a City Police Judge, the Council Monday night named the judges and clerks for the three wards. The election officials will be as follows:

Ward 1 -- Walter A. Smith, Marie Miller, Elmer Wharry, Lovisa Miller; Ward 2 -- Ben Stewart, Ben Cowan, Sr., Florence Martin and Imogene Arnold; Ward 3 -- Mrs. W. S. Worley, Mrs. Zola Ledbetter, Mrs. Hazel Gaines and J. W. Stewart.

In other action Monday night the City Council opened bids for the disposal of two used trucks which the city wished to sell. High bidders were Webber wildly out of balance for years. 5. Reintroduce long-range economic planning. There has been none of significance since the 1963 stabilization program was abandoned when the undeclared war on Malaysia began. 6. Establish at least a fundamental industrial base for the raw-material economy which cannot provide jobs for the swelling population. 7. Revive and expand the tourist industry. Experts believe tourism could bring in millions of dollars a year.

1. Refunding of foreign debts through an international consortium of creditors.
2. A crackdown on smuggling and the currency black market.
3. Integration into the international financial community. President Sukarno pulled Indonesia out of the International Monetary Fund, Indonesia is not participating in the new Asia Development Bank. This has made the island republic an economic outcast.
4. End deficit financing of the internal budget, which has been

The City Council also established regulations regarding out-of-town photographers who want to work one or a few days in the city. The license rate for such photographers will be $5 per day. The annual license fee is $25 per year.

In other routine action the City Council adopted the so-called "Nelson Amendment" covering eligible activities of projects submitted for federal assistance under which chronically unemployed poor persons would be used in projects to improve or beautify the city.

Mayor Gainer also reported to the City Council on his conference with officials of the Missouri Pacific Railroad relative to the erecting of a warning signal at the Catalpa Street crossing here. As was reported earlier the railroad officials had promised to "strongly recommend" such a warning signal be installed but said that it would be necessary to close the rail crossing on Sassafras Street. This crossing is seldom used but it would be necessary to close it, rail officials told the Mayor. This action is expected to be taken immediately.

Income Limits Set For Rent Subsidies

WASHINGTON AP -- Income limits to qualify for rent supplements under President Johnson's controversial program to aid low-income persons, were disclosed today.

The limits as set for some 70 cities were presented to a House appropriations subcommittee March 14 and the testimony was made public today.

The subcommittee recommended only $12 million of the $30 million requested to get the program under way.

The full House Appropriations Committee voted today to accept the subcommittee's recommendation. It approved $100,000 in cash and $12 million in contract authority for the remainder of the fiscal year ending June 30.

The income limits for eligibility for rent supplements, based on families of four, would range from $2,700 annually to Fort Worth, Tex., to $5,760 in New York City. The department said families would not be considered if they had more than $2,000 in assets, or $5,000 in the case of elderly families.

The income limits included: St. Louis, $4,400; Kansas City $3,600.

Ceilings on monthly rentals anywhere would range from $85 for a minimum apartment to $140 for three-bedroom quarters.

The corresponding mortgage ceilings would range from $7,650 to $12,550 with a 25 per cent differential allowable in a few high-cost areas.

Bank Robbery Fugitive on FBI's List

WASHINGTON -- Robert Clayton Buick, an American-born bullfighter who is charged with stealing $89,000 in 18 California bank robberies between 1961 and 1966, has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

Reportedly usually armed with a chrome-plated derringer pistol, Buick allegedly robbed 18 federally insured savings and loan associations in the Los Angeles and San Diego areas between July 29, 1961, and Feb. 7, almost being apprehended while fleeing from the latest robbery in his Buick automobile.

The victim banks were located in Alhambra, Lakewood, Bellflower, Norwalk, Monterey Park, North Hollywood, West Covina, Los Angeles, Santa Ana, Long Beach, La Mesa and San Diego, California, and on three occasions robberies were committed a second time at institutions in Alhambra, Norwalk and San Diego. One institution in West Covina was robbed three times.

Buick's near capture occurred following the alleged Feb. 7, 1966, holdup, after the bandit fled with $5,041 loot from the Monterey Park, California, Branch of the Pacific Savings and Loan Association. An alert retired police officer, unaware of the bank robbery but suspicious of the actions of Buick, pursued him several miles before overtaking him for questioning. When the former officer attempted to detain Buick, he was bitten on the hand and the escapee sped away in his Buick station wagon. This car was recovered several days later, abandoned behind a San Diego restaurant.

Though born in Pennsylvania, Buick has spent much of his time since 1961 in Mexico, where he was married in 1964. He maintains a residence in Mexico City and has operated a marble importing business there and in San Diego, Calif. He has also reportedly worked as a bullfighter, appearing in bull rings in Mexico and Puerto Rico. Other occupations include employment as a laborer, salesman and seaman-steward.

Buick is a white American, reportedly born in Johnstown, Pennsylvania, on June 24, 1932. He is 5'8" to 5'9" tall, weighs 130 to 140 pounds, has a slender build, ruddy complexion, brown eyes and dark brown hair. He has a scar in the web between the thumb and index finger of his right hand, a scar on the back of his right hand and a mole on his right cheek below the outer corner of his eye. He is known to walk very erectly.

Said to be a personable "play-boy type" extrovert who likes attention and the opportunity to boast of his past bullfighting activity, Buick reportedly drinks expensive wines and liquors, frequents good restaurants, night clubs and beach resorts, and likes swimming, boating, dancing, television and jazz music. He is known to dress neatly and conservatively, to travel by air and private automobile, usually exceeding the speed limit, and to wear a diamond ring, a gold identification wrist bracelet and a gold religious neck medal. Buick reportedly smokes cigarettes, is especially fond of Italian and Mexican food and is fairly fluent in the Spanish language.

Buick should be considered armed and extremely dangerous. Should you have any information concerning him, you are requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which is located on the first page of local telephone directories.

Court Ends Long American Struggle

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) -- A long struggle in American history ended Thursday in the Supreme Court.

For years efforts were made in Congress to kill poll taxes in Southern states. This was the reasoning: The taxes were intended to keep Negroes from voting and were thus one more form of racial discrimination. But Southern senators always frustrated such efforts with a filibuster.

Then in 1964 the 24th Amendment was adopted, banning poll taxes as a requirement for voting in federal elections. It didn't ban them in state or local elections, Alabama, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia kept the tax.

Thursday the Supreme Court, in a 6-3 decision, outlawed the poll tax altogether. While the case decided was from Virginia, the language of the decision left no doubt it applies to all other poll-tax states in all elections.

Ironically, while five rather poor Virginia Negroes brought the suit, the court did not base its decision on racial discrimination but on economic discrimination.

Justice William O. Douglas, speaking for the majority, said: "We conclude that a state violates the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment whenever it makes the affluence of the voter or payment of any fee an election standard."

"Voter qualifications have no relation to wealth nor to paying or not paying this or any other tax... Wealth, like race, creed or color is not germane to one's ability to participate intelligently in the electoral process."

"To introduce wealth or payment of a fee as a measure of a voter's qualifications is to introduce a capricious or irrelevant factor."

Douglas made it clear the majority considers the poll tax "invidiously discriminatory."

It took the United States a long time to reach Thursday's decision.

The First Amendment of the Constitution simply says states can set their own qualifications for voting except that those voting for members of Congress must have the same qualifications as those voting for state legislatures.

The 14th Amendment (1868) said a state may not abridge the "privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States" or deny any person of "life, liberty, or property without due process of law."

It was assumed for a time those provisions did not apply to voting rights. So the 15th Amendment (1870) was put through to say specifically that there must be no racial discrimination in voting rights.

For most of American history it was held that the various constitutional provisions did not apply to women and they had no right to vote. The 19th Amendment had to be approved in 1920 to assure them that right.

And as late as 1937 the Supreme Court upheld the right of a state (Georgia) to have a poll tax. But meanwhile in other voting areas the court began to feel the 14th Amendment did apply to voting rights.

Douglas gave a good insight into why the court does not stick to past decisions of the court but in a number of cases has reversed them.

He said: "In determining what lines are unconstitutionally discriminatory, we have never been confined to historic notions of equality any more than we have restricted due process to a fixed catalogue of what was at a given time deemed to be the limits of fundamental rights.

"Notions of what constitutes equal treatment for purposes of the equal protection clause do change."

But Justice Hugo L. Black, one of the dissenters, while admitting he disliked the "policy of the poll tax," sharply rebuked the majority by saying it had given the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment a new meaning.

He said he concludes the court's real reason for its decision is its "deep-seated hostility and antagonism, which I share, although for other reasons he dissented to making payment of tax a prerequisite to voting."

The peanut, which is grown in South America, India, China, French West Africa and the United States, is used mainly for its edible oil everywhere except in the United States where it is produced mainly for grinding into peanut butter. Half of the harvested crop is used for this purpose. Only 10 per cent of the crop is crushed for oil. In the southern part of the United States the peanut is used extensively as feed for livestock.

Court Ends Long American Struggle

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) -- A long struggle in American history ended Thursday in the Supreme Court.

For years efforts were made in Congress to kill poll taxes in Southern states. This was the reasoning: The taxes were intended to keep Negroes from voting and were thus one more form of racial discrimination. But Southern senators always frustrated such efforts with a filibuster.

Then in 1964 the 24th Amendment was adopted, banning poll taxes as a requirement for voting in federal elections. It didn't ban them in state or local elections, Alabama, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia kept the tax. Thursday the Supreme Court, in a 6-3 decision, outlawed the poll tax altogether. While the case decided was from Virginia, the language of the decision left no doubt it applies to all other poll-tax states in all elections.

Ironically, while five rather poor Virginia Negroes brought the suit, the court did not base its decision on racial discrimination but on economic discrimination.

Justice William O. Douglas, speaking for the majority, said: "We conclude that a state violates the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment whenever it makes the affluence of the voter or payment of any fee an election standard."

"Voter qualifications have no relation to wealth nor to paying or not paying this or any other tax... Wealth, like race, creed or color is not germane to one's ability to participate intelligently in the electoral process."

"To introduce wealth or payment of a fee as a measure of a voter's qualifications is to introduce a capricious or irrelevant factor."

Douglas made it clear the majority considers the poll tax "invidiously discriminatory."

It took the United States a long time to reach Thursday's decision.

The First Amendment of the Constitution simply says states can set their own qualifications for voting except that those voting for members of Congress must have the same qualifications as those voting for state legislatures.

The 14th Amendment (1868) said a state may not abridge the "privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States" or deny any person of "life, liberty, or property without due process of law."

It was assumed for a time those provisions did not apply to voting rights. So the 15th Amendment (1870) was put through to say specifically that there must be no racial discrimination in voting rights.

For most of American history it was held that the various constitutional provisions did not apply to women and they had no right to vote. The 19th Amendment had to be approved in 1920 to assure them that right.

And as late as 1937 the Supreme Court upheld the right of a state (Georgia) to have a poll tax. But meanwhile in other voting areas the court began to feel the 14th Amendment did apply to voting rights.

Douglas gave a good insight into why the court does not stick to past decisions of the court but in a number of cases has reversed them.

He said: "In determining what lines are unconstitutionally discriminatory, we have never been confined to historic notions of equality any more than we have restricted due process to a fixed catalogue of what was at a given time deemed to be the limits of fundamental rights.

"Notions of what constitutes equal treatment for purposes of the equal protection clause do change."

But Justice Hugo L. Black, one of the dissenters, while admitting he disliked the "policy of the poll tax," sharply rebuked the majority by saying it had given the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment a new meaning.

He said he concludes the court's real reason for its decision is its "deep-seated hostility and antagonism, which I share, although for other reasons he dissented to making payment of tax a prerequisite to voting."

The peanut, which is grown in South America, India, China, French West Africa and the United States, is used mainly for its edible oil everywhere except in the United States where it is produced mainly for grinding into peanut butter. Half of the harvested crop is used for this purpose. Only 10 per cent of the crop is crushed for oil. In the southern part of the United States the peanut is used extensively as feed for livestock.

Should your son become an advertising man ...like Al?

Aldon Crow works for a newspaper. His job is to interest travel firms and resorts in advertising in his paper. Their advertisements help you pick a vacation spot, and the best way to get there. Many other media compete with Al's paper, so he has to work hard for his share of business. Because he has to know his business thoroughly, he's traveled nearly all over the world.

Al still finds time for his favorite hobby--travel! (He writes travel articles, too.)

He relaxes by trying his luck at dominoes.

He leads a full life with his family.

Al's a skillful advertising man. He's young -- but makes a good living. He ought to, because the advertising business demands a lot of him. It's a business where the average is above average. Sometimes it's tough. Often fun. And always challenging.

Advertising's important to you, too. Good advertising is the least expensive way to tell you what's for sale. This helps you enjoy vacations; buy at lower cost; lead a fuller life. When you buy a product you saw advertised in newspapers, magazines, or on TV -- or heard about on the radio -- you help keep people in jobs. When you learn about a new product and buy it, you help create jobs.

Of course, Al is not an average guy.
But then is your son?
Why shouldn't he become an advertising man?

OLD AND NEW—The striking stockings are out of the past, copied from a style turned out by a London firm in 1862, but with a lot more stripe showing in this up-to-the-minute ensemble than was the case with the floor-sweeping skirts of those Victorian days. With the "olden-day" stockings. British singing star Samantha Juste wears a simple sweater and short skirt.

ANN LANDERS

Answers
Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Has it ever occurred to you that your advice may be getting a little moth-eaten?

You ought to reexamine your antiquated approach to alcohol and tone down your insistent lectures on the "evils" of drinking. Recent developments are making you look pretty stupid, Ann.

Just a few weeks ago I read that a Harvard professor who is an authority on alcoholism believes that children should be taught to drink liquor at an early age. He claims that if children grow up to accept liquor as just another ordinary beverage and not a devil in a bottle, they will attach no special significance to liquor and their chances for developing an unhealthy craving for it will be greatly reduced.

I agree with the professor that the reason there are so many alcoholics around is because liquor was forbidden to them and they never learned how to handle it properly.

I hope you will be big enough to print this letter and your answer. If you can think of one. -- THE NEW LOOK AT LIFE

Dear New Look: I am well aware of the professor's theory and I do have an opinion which has been reinforced by a distinguished Washington, D. C. psychiatrist -- also Harvard trained. I think your professor's theory is as sappy as a maple tree in April.

The professor recommended that children be taught to drink at an early age. According to him a little sherry in the water for elementary school kids would be just dandy for openers.

Now can't you just see a young mother sending her little tyke off to school, happy in the knowledge that her youngster is going to learn a great many things--including how to hold his liquor?

I do not buy the professor's basic assumption that EVERYBODY is going to drink so they should learn how early--real early. If this theory is correct, why not teach kindergarten kids to smoke cigars and use narcotics -- sparingly, of course.

Your professor sets forth another premise which I believe is false--that liquor attracts and finally traps people because it is forbidden.

Excessive drinking is rarely traceable to the forbidden fruit doctrine. A craving for alcohol is caused by a personality deficiency -- a defect in the ego structure.

People who drink too much usually blame outside pressures. The truth is they reach for the bottled anesthetic because they lack the inner resources to tolerate the pain.

I believe we should teach our youngsters the joy of achieving the rewards that come from meeting a challenge with courage and confidence.

It is a crime against humanity to give a child a crutch when he has two perfectly good legs. This is the best way I know to produce a generation of cripples.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting -- And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 25¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

New China Policy Appears Wishful

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) -- A number of people -- 198 of them -- have signed a batch of proposals urging a new policy toward Red China. It looks like a bundle of wishful thinking, with some realities shoved under the rug.

A small group of scholars on China drew up the proposals which were circulated by the Association for Asian Studies among its 2,700 members. The 198 who signed included citizens, high school teachers, college professors.

One proposal: The United States should stop preventing Red China's admittance to the United Nations on the grounds that peace in Asia would be easier to obtain with the Communist Chinese inside the world organization.

The United States has been able to block U.N. membership for Red China since 1950. But the Red Chinese have insisted that, if they go in, Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist Chinese government on Formosa must be thrown out.

But this government has a mutual defense treaty with Chiang's government, which is an American ally and has been backed and protected by the United States ever since the Korean War.

But while the 198 signers want Red China in the United Nations, and there is no indication the Red Chinese have changed their mind about wanting Chiang's China out, the signers say the United States must maintain its relations with Chiang. This in effect means two Chinas.

But the Red Chinese insist there is only one China and that Formosa and the Chinese there belong to mainland China. They're bent on taking it when they can. And Chiang won't accept the idea of two Chinas, either.

The 198 signers suggest that recognition of Red China as a legitimate government -- a recognition refused by this country ever since the Communists took control of the mainland in 1949 -- "offers a means of conducting business and settling disputes."

But only last Sunday, Dean Rusk, secretary of state, listed a number of unsuccessful attempts to establish some worthwhile contacts with Red China.

He said the Red Chinese answer to all such efforts, made during the regular meetings between the U.S. and Chinese diplomats at Warsaw, was this: Letting them have Formosa was a first condition.

Russia Will Get Realistic Five-Year Economic Plan

MOSCOW (AP) -- The national congress of the Soviet Communist party, opening Tuesday, will give orders for a five-year economic plan that will bury former Premier Khrushchev's boasts of catching up with the U.S. economy by 1970.

This already has been assured by the published directives for the 1966-70 plan that controls production on every Soviet factory and farm. The directives by the party will determine the Soviet government's final plan.

Western economic specialists agree that the new plan, which drops Khrushchev's ambitious goals, is a more sober, realistic blueprint for Soviet economic growth.

Some, however, believe the new plan is still overly optimistic.

The plan is the major agenda item of the 23rd congress of the Soviet Communist party. Of all issues discussed at the meeting of 5,000 Soviet party delegates, plus scores of foreign Communists, the plan may prove to have the greatest significance.

The plan will go a long way toward determining the average Soviet citizen's wages and the clothes, food and other goods he can buy.

The plan will chart the domestic economic strength which will form the basis for the Kremlin's military planning, foreign trade and aid, the space program, and political competition with Red China and the West.

Khrushchev predicted in 1961 that the Soviet Union would overtake the United States in per capita production by 1970.

Instead Soviet economic growth rates have slowed. In the 1960s the U.S. and Soviet economies have been growing at about the same rate of 4 per cent a year, according to Western figures. Since the United States economy is approximately twice as big, the absolute gap between them has grown in favor of the United States.

The reduced goals of the new Soviet plan indicate the Russians are concentrating on a steady growth of their own economy rather than on a crash program to overtake the United States.

The new plan also contains these major implications:

The Soviets are counting on the lack of a major war, despite the Viet Nam conflict, in order to complete what still is an ambitious program of economic reform and growth at home.

The Soviet consumer will get what Western specialists call a reasonably fair share of the economic pie, but the plan will increase the Soviet standard of living dramatically.

The plan still emphasizes heavy industry.

But planned percentage increases in the light or consumer industries and in heavy industry are about the same -- 43-46 per cent for the former and 49-52 per cent for the latter. This would indicate that the consumer will get a fair share of the planned economic growth.

These figures, however, are subject to change if Soviet leaders decide the world situation demands sharp increases in military spending.

Malden School Program Okayed

MALDEN -- Superintendent of Schools Alva DeVault reports that a pre-school kindergarten and a tutoring program for Malden R-1 public schools has been approved.

The projects are made possible through federal aid to education under Title I of Public Law 8910.

The kindergarten program is scheduled to begin May 31 and continue through August 15. All children in the Malden school district who will be six years of age by October 1 will be eligible to attend.

At the end of the summer kindergarten program an application will be made for a similar program, DeVault said, to be held throughout the regular 1966-67 school year.

The tutoring program will go into effect next week. Teachers will be selected from each grade, beginning with the third and going through the sixth, to assist students showing deficiencies.

In junior high and high school, one teacher from each of the various departments will be employed to tutor students in their particular field -- such as math, history, English, etc. These special teachers will be employed one hour each day, Monday through Friday, for the tutoring program.

Today In U. S. History

Today is Monday, March 28, the 87th day of 1966. There are 278 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1814, the saga of the American Frigate Essex ended when she was sunk by two British ships. The Essex had survived 17 months of raiding in the Pacific, living on captured British supplies.

On this date:

- In 1484, the Italian painter Raphael was born.
- In 1868, Russian author Maxim Gorki was born.
- In 1910, former President Theodore Roosevelt delivered a lecture at the University of Cairo.
- In 1941, the British Mediterranean fleet defeated an Italian naval force in the Battle of Cape Matapan.
- In 1943, the British 8th Army broke the Mareth Line Tunisia.
- Ten years ago — The Icelandic Parliament asked the withdrawal of all NATO forces from Iceland.
- Five years ago — A Czechoslovak airlines turbo-prop plane exploded in the air over West Germany, killing all 52 persons aboard.
- One year ago — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. appealed for a nationwide boycott of Alabama products.

Parma Will Vote on $2.50 School Levy

PARMA -- Voters of the Parma school district will vote on a school levy of $2.50 per $100 assessed valuation for the operation of the school next year.

This is the same levy that is now in effect. The school board says that this levy is a minimum by which the school can operate and maintain a good school program.

Due to the fact that $1.25 plus the debt service levy of .35 is set by the board without voter approval, only .90 of the $2.50 levy will appear on the ballot and the Board of Education wants to stress that the .90 shown on the ballot is not an increase over last year's levy. The $1.25 for school purposes and .35 debt service, which are set by the Board without voter approval, added to the .90 appearing on the ballot gives the $2.50 levy which the District needs for the operation of the school.

If the levy is approved it will be broken down as follows:

Teachers Fund	.80
Incidental Fund	.75
Building Fund	.60
Debt Service	.35
TOTAL	$2.50

This levy is next to the lowest rate of all schools in the five counties of New Madrid, Stoddard, Scott, Dunklin and Pemiscot.

CARNIVAL By Dick Turner

"My dad's a clever man with tools! I never have been able to find out where he hides his new electric drill!"

SIDE GLANCES By Gill Fox

Then there was the kid who played hooky from school so often he was called a "drop in" instead of a "drop out."
